BREMEN IN RUSSIA

BERLIN, Sept. 14 (AP) — A man with an excellent connection with the German navy reported today that the Bremen, Germany's most costly passenger vessel, had been sailed to Murmansk, Russia. He said the $20,000,000 ship, after leaving New York, took the most northerly course possible, entering the Arctic ocean from the Atlantic and proceeding to Kola bay and Murmansk.

(It was reported in Berlin on Sept. 7 the Bremen had reached an unidentified neutral port. Later Field Marshal General Goering said that Britain's attempt to capture the liner had "missed fire.")

BRITISH TANKER SENDS SOS

War Diary

14th Day

On the Land—The rains came, today, in Poland and what remains of Poland rejoiced but for what remained of Poland there seemed no great hope. Gdynia fell. The Polish seaport, cut off from all aid, which had withstood a sea, land and air bombardment for two weeks, surrendered to the Nazi forces. So every inch of Poland between East Prussia and Prussia came under German arms.

Blasted Warsaw, ruin and desolation at every hand, still stood, its civilians shoulder to shoulder with the defending army. But Polish divisions in the "pocket" west of Warsaw were being squeezed tighter and tighter. And in the south another German army pushed eastward towards the outskirts of Lwow and a possible meeting with Russian forces. (See Behind the Front.)

On the western front the French army from the Maginot line, reinforced by thousands of British Tommies, drove for Germany's rich industrial city of Saarbrücken from three sides. Nazi land mines blasted under them and from the Siegfried front line forts six miles behind Saarbrücken, the heavy German artillery laid down a devastating barrage. Berlin said the allied advance was stopped by mines and big guns. The French communiqué did not dispute this. It said merely: "Strong action by heavy enemy artillery on heights south of Saarbrücken."

On the Sea—A U-boat torpedoed in her vitals, the 17th British ship plunged to the bottom of the sea south of the Irish coast today. She was the S. S. Vancouver City, a small cargo ship. "Torpedoed and taking to boats," she flashed in an SOS picked up by Chatham, Mass., radio. S. S. President Roosevelt turned aside to the rescue but her crew was saved by a Dutch tanker and an airplane. To date, 99,710 tons of British shipping have fallen prey to U-boats. (See Map on Page 17.)

Germany's luxury queen of the sea, the Bremen, is at Murmansk, Russia, according to a story out of Berlin today. It quotes a source close to the navy. Bremen raced north in the Atlantic into the Arctic ocean and preceded to Kola Bay, the story states. It rings with considerable authority, especially in view of the earlier Berlin story saying the liner had reached a neutral port. Russia is perhaps the one nation where the Bremen could arrive without news leaking to the outside world.

In the Air—Germany's threat to bomb civilians, her actually bombing of civilians as charged by U. S. Ambassador Biddle, and Britain's threat of retaliation on the Nazi population had no immediate follow-up today. The air action of the day, insofar as the censors admitted it, was confined to the military action on both fronts.

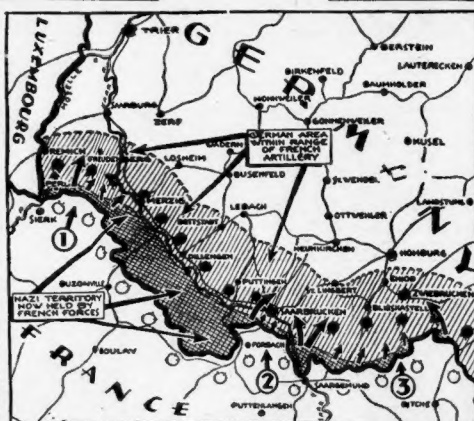

Behind the Front—Out of Berlin today came a story by Pierre Huss, International News Service (passed by the German censor), that an authoritative source forecast Russia's entry into activities almost immediately. A deal between Nazi Germany and Red Russia for partition of Poland was reported behind the massing of troops on the Russian-Poland frontier. These troops, it was predicted, shortly would move into eastern Poland. Should the Nazi army reach eastern Poland before the Russians, the Nazis would withdraw, it was stated. Then the partition would be effected and a buffer state established between new German-Russian borders. This story bears out a forecast—made two days after the signing of the Nazi-Russian pact—by H. R. Knickerbocker, International News Service ace correspondent in Europe. If it comes to pass, then Russia goes to war on the side of Germany.

Hitler will probably offer peace to Poland and appeal to President Roosevelt to take action on his plea, according to an H. R. Knickerbocker story greatly deleted by the London censor. The plan is described as a Hitler trap to shift the onus of war onto the Allies and the President if his plea is refused. And Knickerbocker says it will be refused.

Best of all news for the civilian populations of the warring nations was announced today in London by Viscount Halifax. It was receipt of a promise from Germany that the Nazis will not use poison gas or bacteria for the duration of hostilities providing the allies do not. England, more vulnerable than Germany to air gas attack, of course, will agree. But it will be interesting to note how many persons really lay aside their gas masks.

A Nazi spokesman who usually quotes the foreign office, today assailed President Roosevelt's interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine as "unfair and unchivalrous to say nothing of being unneutral." F. D. R. has said the United States would aid Canada if Canada were attacked, will aid other western nations if they are attacked, and that no U-boats may base in any western nation.

WESTERN FRONT

LIKE the German army's 'pincers' surrounding Warsaw, the French have formed 'pincers' of their own on the western front, where they are driving in hard on both sides of Saarbrücken, 2, main mining center of the rich Saar Valley. Under heavy Nazi fire from the main Siegfried Line, French units, bolstered by English troops, have managed to advance their lines and Saarbrücken's fall is seen imminent. Shaded area, from 1 to 3, represents the territory the allies have taken from Germany.

EASTERN FRONT

NAZI army 'pincers' all but encircled Warsaw today, and despite stubborn resistance, the city's fall seemed imminent. No. 1 shows how 'Pozen Pocket' is closing near Kutno. Polish divisions trapped there are retreating toward Warsaw, 2. Radom, 3, and Barow, 4, may be evacuated in another retreat. Poles hope to stop Nazi drive at Jaroslaw, 5, and Chyrow, 6, and keep life-line to Rumania, 7, open. Russians mobilize on border, 8 and 9. Poles fear Lithuania may seek to regain Wilno, 10. At Gdynia, 11, Polish garrison capitulated to Germans.

War Diary Comparison

THE THIRTEENTH DAY	THE THIRTEENTH DAY
The Germans began to resume the offensive in France and Belgium. They stormed the last of the Liege forts which had remained in action after the city fell and resumed the fighting at Haelen. They pushed the French back in Alsace, and their Austrian allies came right back at the Serbs, who had checked them the day before.	The Germans continued their drive in the south of Poland and both sides claimed victories in the Warsaw-Lodz area. The French reported that they had Saarbrücken surrounded and continued their push against the Westwall fortifications. Germany warned that she might bomb open towns and villages and England counterwarned of "appropriate action" if the Nazi did so.

BULLETINS

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—The United States liner Manhattan today radioed she had turned from her course to rescue the crew of the British tanker British Influence.

(Editor's Note: Earlier in the day, the sinking of the 4955-ton British freighter Vancouver Castle off Ireland was reported.) (Other story on Page 14)

SOUTHEAST, Eng., Sept. 14 (INS)—An air raid warning, the first of this week, sent the population of Southeast on England's Essex coast rushing to bomb-proof shelters this afternoon. The "all clear" signal was given 20 minutes later. There was no panic. Southeast's last air raid warning came last week when a fleet of German bombers attempted to cross the English coast and were driven back by anti-aircraft fire.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—President Roosevelt today decreed stringent regulations for aircraft flights over the Panama Canal zone. An executive order created the "canal zone military airspace reservation" which includes territorial waters within the three-mile limit off both entrances of the waterway.

LONDON, Sept. 14 (INS)—Two labor strikes were reported during the past week in the huge Opel Motor factory at Rueselsheim, Germany, according to an announcement by the ministry of information here today. A number of arrests resulted.

PARIS, Sept. 14 (INS)—Polish radio reports again insisting that the Polish troops had recaptured the industrial city of Lodz were received here today, despite Germany's claim that the city has been occupied by Reich troops. Large quantities of arms, ammunition and other war materials were seized, the Polish radio asserted.

BERLIN, Sept. 14—Rumanian Ambassador Radu Crutcescu has assured Field Marshal Goering of Rumania's strictest neutrality, it was announced today.

MRS. OLGA MOULTON
"Sunbathing" Vs. $50,000 Alimony

Wife Paraded Nude, Rich Man Charges

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—She took nude sunbaths at their Florida estate where all could see . . . she walked the decks of their yacht so scantily clad as to embarrass guests and members of the crew . . . she bathed nude in the presence of men and, at home, sat nude in her boudoir with the door open.

In addition, once, while they were in Italy, she attacked him, scratched him and struck him, and, on another occasion, insisted upon drawing her will because there were three candles on the dining-room table.

Such are the charges on file today against Mrs. Olga Moulton, young and beautiful Russian wife of Arthur Julian Moulton, 65-year-old millionaire, who makes his home in Paris.

FIGHTS BIG ALIMONY

The charges, filed in answer to Mrs. Moulton's petition for a separation and $50,000 alimony, cite a long list of alleged episodes involving Mrs. Moulton's fondness for appearing without clothing.

She was, the papers state, the former Olga Scholmirowsky, and acclaimed as a world famous beauty. They were married in 1934, and have spent subsequent winters in Florida, and cruising on their yacht.

100,000 Poles Flee Nazi Plane Bombs

By DANIEL DE LUCE

(Editor's note—The following dispatch was sent to Budapest and filed from there at 11:56 a. m. today—5:56 a. m. E. S. T.)

SNIATYN, Poland (at the Rumanian border), Sept. 14 (time of writing ungiven)—(AP)—Weary refugees, trudging along the main highways of southeastern Poland today, reported they were under continual fire of German planes using bombs and machine-guns.

They said every train, railroad station, bridge and automobile in the area was an actual or potential target of the swarming aerial invaders.

It was estimated that at least 100,000 Poles, moving mostly afoot toward the Rumanian frontier, were fleeing Poland's war-swept zones.

With communications disrupted, making accuracy impossible, it was estimated in foreign circles that civilian casualties in scattered towns and byways averaged at least a hundred daily.

BODIES EVERYWHERE

Persons coming through the countryside as I did could see blasted homes, burning factories, shattered railroad lines—and tangled bodies of men, women and children.

Hotels in Lwow were crowded, mostly with staff officers. Most cars now being used were to take officers' families to the frontier.

The hotels are serving only one-plate meals because of a shortage of supplies. Hard liquor is not permitted anywhere in Poland because it has been turned over to the military for medical use.

Newspapers are limited to one sheet printed on both sides.

Terror is almost as great in the countryside as in the cities.

Observers charged that German planes make constant attacks, not only on lines of fleeing refugees, but also on small villages, which have no anti-aircraft protection or long-range guns.

Everywhere I go I hear criticism from the man in the street of the Poles' leadership and examples of alleged lack of preparation. For instance, a woman medical expert from Warsaw told me the first trainload of wounded was side-tracked for a full hour before any of the seriously wounded and dying men received any attention.

The Lwow radio is constantly broadcasting appeals to citizens capable of bearing arms not to leave, as "a definite defense will be made." Nevertheless, refugees have been pouring out of the city in a steady stream since the first bombardment September 1, many of them of military age.

The frontier itself was not safe until one actually crossed into Rumania. Zaleszczyk, on the Polish side, already has been raked with aerial fire

Battles For Son's Custody

Mae Murray, dancing film star of several years ago, appears in Albany court with her attorney, Arthur Harvey, as she sought order for return of her son, Koran Mdivani, 12, whom she needs (she stated) to carry out suit against her ex-mate, Prince David Mdivani, for $5000-a-year trust fund.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—Seeking depositions and evidence of all sorts, Mae Murray, the first of the motion picture "Merry Widows," and ascendant's Glamour Girl No. 1 of a decade ago, was back here today preparing to battle for custody of her son, Koran Mdivani, 12, now at the home of Miss Bessie Cunningham, at Averill Park, near Albany.

Indignant and tearful, the actress asserts that she cannot understand why Miss Cunningham, who has cared for the boy since 1936, won't give him up. She needs him, she pointed out, to carry on her suit in Los Angeles against Prince David Mdivani, her ex-husband, for a $5000-a-year trust fund.

Miss Cunningham's brother, Dr. Daniel Cunningham, operated upon the youngster in 1936 for a double mastoid condition, and he was sent to the Averill Park home to recuperate.

Where's Elmer?---He's Found!

Lo, these many years, members of the American Legion have raced up and down the nation with the resounding cry "Where's Elmer?"

In Boston, New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and other convention cities the boys with the overseas hats have been always searching—apparently never finding.

So it was with pardonable pride today that Boston announced Elmer had been found.

Elmer is sleeping soundly in a store window on Federal st., and getting paid for it.

He is Elmer Valentine, 21, of Humboldt ave., Roxbury, and his job consists of sleeping 40 hours a week for a regular weekly salary—a feat accomplished only in a few rare cases.

"It's not so easy," Elmer means, "when people outside on the street keep debating whether I'm real or just a stuffed dummy. When the arguments get too hot, I just move my foot a little bit to show them."

Elmer is a living example beneath a sign which reads, "Don't Work So Hard," advertising products supposed to conserve energy. Previously, he has worked as a grocery clerk, kitchen worker, cosmetic salesman and on an ocean liner.

WEST SWELTERS AS HUB BASKS IN AUTUMN AIR

While the Mid West sweltered and baked again today, with temperatures as high as 100 degrees, New England enjoyed another in her series of comfortable later summer days.

No relief from the heat wave that has held sway virtually all week in the Mid West is in sight, according to weather reports.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel in Chicago said he had little hope of moderation, even by Saturday.

Stagnation of atmospheric conditions in the East, Donnel said, has blocked relief in the Midwest and held the heat there.

Yesterday the mercury reached 95 in Chicago, and today was well on its way again to that mark, if not higher.

The heat in the Central States damaged late corn, grain sorghums, apples, tobacco and alfalfa.

Outside the heat belt, however, varying conditions prevailed, with Reno, Nev., residents shivering last night in a temperature of 29, while at Owl's Head in northern New York a low of 20 degrees was reported, with skin ice on poles.

SQUALUS DOCKING BALKED

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 14 (INS)—Submarine Squalus, tomb of 26 dead, today again balked salvage efforts to shift her 460-ton hulk plus many tons of water into drydock.

The task of pumping water from the flooded aft section was under way through a hatch over the aft battery room when the rising tide caused a shift in the submarine which sent the hatch under water. The hatch was hurriedly slammed shut.

The forward battery room, control room and other compartments were virtually dry as a result of all-night pumping work which followed the eight mile tow by the navy tug Wandank after the Squalus was surfaced after 113 days of work on the seventh lifting attempt.

Salvage officials expressed belief that the stern is too heavy to permit huge traveling cranes and pontoons to ease the $5,000,000 craft into a specially prepared drydock. The bow may be weighted with water to equalize the 310-foot long craft.

Workers were confronted with a peculiar circumstance when they sought to gain entrance into the aft compartment where the victims were trapped on May 23.

The heavy steel door leading to the aft battery room, which electrician's mate Lloyd Mannes of Greensboro, N. C., slammed shut as the wall of water from the aft section rushed toward the central control room, remained fast.

Every effort was made to open the door so salvage workers could remove the water and the bodies of the victims, 24 navy men and two civilians. At the time of the disaster

Mannes' prompt action saved 33 lives on the submersible.

Officials explained the water must be pumped from the stern before workers with gas masks can enter to remove the bodies. Gas masks would be needed because of the poisonous chlorine gas from the flooded batteries.

Woman Scientist Challenges Contention 'Her Place in Home'

Calling for equal opportunities for women, Professor May L. Whittitt of Southern Methodist University today challenged the contention that "woman's place is in the home."

Addressing the 98th meeting of the American Chemical Society, the woman scientist declared women must be given a more commanding place in business and industry.

"Here in our own democracy, a large group of middle class, ultra-conservative men and women are quick to borrow the dictator's slogan, and with a warm glow of sentimentality for the days of their grandmother when women's work was never done, needlessly make sex the basis for an unjust discrimination, she said.

She said "efficiency" should be the determining factor in choosing any person for a job, and that all women, married or single, should be considered "just people."

"Moreover," she added, "the unjust discrimination against married women workers shown by some industries, many school boards and even some legislatures serves to weaken the position of all women. Single women opposing employment of married women would do well to realize this fact."

Members of the organization heard Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of M. I. T., declare that science is a preventative against war.

HOW TO BALK WAR

The fact that scientists can synthetically produce petroleum, rubber, coal and other essential materials will help eliminate the major causes of war and the need for employing fighting forces to acquire the world's natural resources will be removed, Dr. Compton declared.

"At present, undoubtedly the greatest concern of the world is the war and threat of war," added Dr. Compton, discussing the subject, "Looking Forward in Research." "A good deal has been said about the ways in which science has been applied to make warfare more destructive, just as science has also been applied to bring about a certain compensating degree of protection against new weapons."

"CUSSEDNESS" A PROBLEM

"Insofar as wars are caused by the natural 'cussedness' of human nature, science can contribute, if at all, only very indirectly. It can probably not do much toward removing the desire which some men have for great domination. It cannot remove ambition and envy from the human breast. But insofar as wars may be induced by economic consideration, science may do much to remove the causes."

"One of the earliest incentives to war was the invasion of one country by another for loot."

"Discovery and development of the 'good things of life' by science, engineering and invention are far more certain of productive source than organized loot and robbery."

Dr. James E. Conant, president of Harvard University, and holder of the William H. Nichols Medal of the New York Section of the American Chemical Society, in an address on "Lessons from the Past," stated that rubber chemists are professionally merely children of the great modern revolution in society's habits of transportation.

The growth of rubber manufacturing grew with the automobile industry, Dr. Conant pointed out.

The dinner, sponsored by the Society's rubber division and held at the Copley Plaza Hotel, was attended by more than 1000 persons.

Get Beautiful—Stand on Head

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (INS)—An announcement of momentous import to the world at large was contained today in a telegram sent by Press Agent Myer P. Beck to newspapers and news agencies here. The press agent telegraphed:

"Stand on your head and get beautiful" is the rule of Elaine Shepard, Hollywood's most beautiful and famous model who will cheerfully stand on her head for your photographers when she arrives today at Newark airport. Miss Shepard will also stand on her head at the Barbizon Plaza hotel."

Runaway Car Hits 6 Others

A parked automobile, registered in the name of a Dorchester woman but bearing the card of a Holyoke member of the Massachusetts Legislature on the windshield, rolled driverless today down the steep slope of Hancock st., Beacon Hill, colliding with six other machines and imperiling lives of passersby.

Five of the cars hit were parked, unoccupied. The sixth was operated by a man who saved himself from injury and possible death by a quick and dexterous swerve. He escaped with a crushed fender.

The runaway auto finally brought up with a crash in the doorway of a Hancock st. dwelling.

Police said the machine was registered to Hortense G. Maguire of Adams st., Dorchester.

The card found bore the name of Rep. Oscar DeRoy of Holyoke, according to investigating officers.

Kane Candidate Again in Woburn

Mayor William E. Kane, Woburn's economy-minded mayor, is a candidate for re-election. It was inadvertently disclosed today. In addressing members of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, the mayor said:

"In the 1937 election, I polled 61 per cent of the vote cast and this November I'm going to get 70 per cent."

FIRE IN KITCHENS' KITCHEN

Fire swept the kitchen of the Colonial Kitchens, Charles st., West End, today, causing $700 damage. Firemen confined the blaze to the kitchen of the two-story restaurant.

Note Aids Burglars In $2000 Gem Theft

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14 (AP)—Never again will Mrs. Eugene Palette, wife of the motion picture actor, write notes to be pinned on doors.

Palette told police his wife, expecting guests at their penthouse atop a Hollywood hotel, wrote "I'll be home in two hours." The wrong person called first, said Palette, and walked off with jewelry and cash totaling $2000.

BARE NEW 'PRISONER RACKET'

As old—almost—as time, the Spanish prisoner racket popped up again today when federal officials in Boston issued a fraud order against mail and money orders to various Mexican names in four Mexican cities.

The order followed receipt of letters here from alleged inmates of Mexican prisons seeking financial aid in obtaining trunks now declared to be in custody of United States customs officials and filled with gold, bank notes, securities and what-have-you.

As usual in the ancient racket, a substantial reward is promised the big-hearted gullible who falls for the ruse to obtain money.

presence of any number of guests she would lift her dresses to show a claimed injury on her upper thigh. She batted in the presence of men while nude, posed in the presence of others while nude, and would remain in her room, nude, with the door open."

The alleged attack upon him took place while they were at the Excelsior hotel in Rome on Feb. 28, 1938, the papers state, at which time she flew at him, "charging me with all sorts of improper conduct, lunging at me and clawing, scratching my face."

The will-drawing happened at their French chateau, he states, when she accused him of "trying to cause my death," her fear being based on an old Russian superstition involving three candles on a dining-table, supposedly fatal to one of the diners.

She called him, he says, a "fool, stingy old man, jackass, meany and hypocrite."

Auto Thieves Please Note!

Warning to automobile thieves: If you must steal a car, don't steal one belonging to a state trooper, and from the parking space at a trooper's barracks.

Ernest Snow, 21, of Bridgeport, Ct., a former inmate of the Concord State Reformatory, found out about that today when he was held for the grand jury by Judge Howard A. Wilson in the Concord district court.

He was accused of taking a car belonging to Trooper Bernard H. McGrath from the troopers' barracks across the street from the reformatory. He did not, police reported, get far.

Watertown Budget Slashes Favored

Slashes of $80,000 in the annual town budget were recommended by the Watertown finance committee today for action next Tuesday at the annual town meeting.

The committee refused to increase the salaries of selectmen, now $500 each, to $1500 for the chairman and $1200 for other members. A $500 raise for the police chief also was turned down.

New B. C. Head Grooms 400 Freshmen

The three important factors in the life of a college student are formation, information and transformation, the Rev. William J. Murphy, S. J., newly appointed head of Boston College, told more than 400 freshmen at the opening of classes today.

In explaining the features of college life, Fr. Murphy said that youths should be thankful to God and country for the opportunity of obtaining a college education, as compared with opportunities now being afforded the youth of Europe—that of having to shoulder a gun.

"By formation the student should seek to form a high standing character," the president explained.

"Information is what you expect to receive during your four years at college. You should create an effort to make use of the material offered.

"Third and lastly, by transformation one should be adapted to increase his standing in the community by bettering himself through his knowledge and training."

The Rev. John P. Foley, S. J., dean of the freshmen, also welcomed the new students.

Tomorrow morning the entire freshman body will attend mass in St. Mary's chapel. Mass will be celebrated by Fr. Murphy.

Only JENNEY Guarantees More Mileage!

At no increase in price Jenney gives you Solvenized Gasoline and guarantees you will get more mileage, more power, make substantial savings.

You have read many advertisements of many gasolines claiming more mileage. But Jenney guarantees it Jenney can make this sweeping promise because no one else can offer you Solvenized Gasoline nor anything like it, because Solvenized is covered by far-reaching basic patents.

All gasolines produce gum, but Jenney Solvenized Gasoline contains a patented concentrate which dissolves this gum—the binder of carbon—and so lets the carbon blow out the exhaust.

With gum dissolved and hard carbon blown out, compression is improved—piston rings seal and valves seat more tightly, and gasoline which formerly leaked by them is saved and used. Naturally, then, you use less gasoline, you get more power, your motor operates more smoothly.

Use Jenney Solvenized Gasoline and Jenney Solvenoil—the Extreme Pressure Motor Oil—and you will save money. Remember—we guarantee it!

Isa Miranda Tells Of Secret Wedding

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14 (INS).—Can a woman keep a secret? Well, Isa Miranda has kept the news of her marriage to Alfred Guarini a profound secret ever since July 1. The reason the news of the blonde Italian movie star's marriage was never made public is because Isa was married under her true name of Ines Sampietro at Tucson, Arizona.

At first she hesitated about admitting her real name—not that she has anything to hide, but as she says it is a difficult name to pronounce and spell and means nothing now because she has used her professional name for so many years.

But it stood her in good stead when she decided not to disclose that she was a married woman until she had completed her new picture, "Diamonds Are Dangerous" at Paramount studios.

There was much fanfare when the beautiful Miranda arrived in this country heralded as being "the most glamorous woman in the world" by no less an authority than Gabriel D'Annunzio, the late Italian poet laureate and connoisseur of women, the man with whom Eleanor Duse was in love so many years and who broke her heart in making public their romance.

After almost a year spent in learning English and becoming accustomed to American ways, Isa was starred in "Hotel Imperial" and the soon to be released "Diamonds Are Dangerous" in which she is co-starred with George Brent.

She met Guarini five years ago in Italy when she was beginning her career in motion pictures. He became her advisor and manager afterward producing a number of her pictures which were very successful. It was he who negotiated the contract which brought her to this country two years ago where their business relationship blossomed into love.

SHERLOCK CARTER SOLVES IT!

Proves There Could Have Been No Dump Murder

The great Sherlock Carter, would-be famous detective, eased himself back into the rumble seat, took a quick shot of ethyl gasoline, then relaxed. Puffing contentedly, he began:

"No you see, my dear Doctor Watson," he said, "it is simply simple."

He was referring, of course, to the Mystery of the Dochester Dumps, or Who Murdered Who and Why? an amazingly strange case in which women's clothing was found hard by the dumps, hard by the sea, hard by what used to be a ship's slip and hard by tires getting there.

"And what," queried the good doctor, "is your conclusion?"

"That there was no murder at all," said Carter, triumphantly.

And his was, indeed, an amazing assertion. For the last 12, ten, eight, six—cheese it!—hours policemen and reporters had been roving the dumps, seeking the victim's body, fearing any moment to come upon a grisly corpse.

"It was a simple matter of deduction," continued Sherlock Carter, "granted that the clothing found was of the feminine gender, the question was, but who was she? Ah, ha! That's the point

"Examination quickly disclosed that it was not a single she, but several. Had there been mass murders, then? Had several women been killed? No, my dear Watson. None."

NO DOUBLES IN CORSETS

"Astounding!" ejaculated Doctor Watson. "But how did you learn this?"

"Simple, Watson—very simple," said Carter. "Women nowadays wear—ah, what do you call 'em? Ah—"

"I understand sir," said Watson.

"But no woman," said Carter, "wears two!"

He took another puff of exhaust, another shot of ethyl.

"No, my dear Watson," he said finally, "no woman wears two corsets. The clothing, my friend, had been gathered from the dump by a rag picker and left there—forgotten, perhaps—and that's the whole solution."

"Flabbergasting!" ejaculated Doctor Watson ... But there was no response.

Sherlock Carter was sleeping soundly ...

BRITISH BOMBER'S END—Passed by the censor and radioed to America from Berlin, this photo, according to the German caption, shows the wreckage of a British bomber which was shot down by the Nazis near Wilhelmshaven, Germany.

Plane Helps Save Torpedoed Seamen

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (INS)—Joint rescue by a non-belligerent vessel and an airplane of the crew of another freighter (17th British submarine victim since hostilities began) torpedoed in the Irish Sea was revealed today in a laconic radio message flashed to New York by Capt. Harry Manning, skipper of the U. S. Lines passenger liner President Roosevelt.

The torpedoed craft, the British freighter Vancouver City, first flashed an S. O. S. at 6:15 a. m. (EDT) today, giving her position as about 100 miles southeast of Cobh, Ireland. The message ended with this plea:

"Taking to boats. Come rescue." At 9:45 a. m. (EDT), Captain Manning advised his New York office that he was racing to the aid of the stricken crew, floating around in lifeboats about 52 miles away. A few minutes later he sent another radio telling of the combined ship-and-plane rescue.

The message said: "Crew of Vancouver City picked up by Dutch tanker, assisted by airplane. Resuming course." The President Roosevelt was en route to Southampton, after stopping at Cobh, on an eastward voyage to pick up stranded Americans and return them to the United States.

NAZIS RAP F. D. STAND ON CANADA

BERLIN, Sept. 14 (AP)—A commentary which usually presents the German foreign office opinion today attributed to President Roosevelt, in his interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine, an attitude "unfair and unchivalrous, to say nothing of being unneutral."

The comment on President Roosevelt's attitude appeared in Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz as part of the German reaction to Canada's declaration of war last Sunday, by which the dominion threw her resources to the aid of Great Britain against Germany. Canada's declaration, it said, placed the President in an "awkward" position.

Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz referred to President Roosevelt's Tuesday press conference in which he made plain that he interprets the Monroe Doctrine to mean the United States should protect by force if necessary all the Americans, including Canada.

Korrespondenz also referred to the President's Kingston, Ontario, speech of last year in which he said the United States would not "stand idly by" if Canada were threatened.

The commentary observed that Mr. Roosevelt, in effect, was saying that Canada may attack a European power but that power may not strike back at Canada. It held such an attitude to be "unfair and unchivalrous, to say nothing of being unneutral."

The commentary argued that impartial application of the Monroe Doctrine would impose on the United States the responsibility of seeing that American countries do not attack non-American countries if the United States expects the rest of the world to keep hands off the western hemisphere.

HUNT HARBOR DERELICT

Coast Guard picket boats today searched the entrance of Boston harbor for a derelict about 50 feet long, which the captain of the Eastern Steamship liner New York reported was encountered by his ship last night.

Congress May Act On U-Boat Warfare

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—Launching of submarine warfare upon merchant ships—the factor that led the United States into the first World War—prompted President Roosevelt to act quickly in calling Congress into extraordinary session.

The White House, revealing the President's alarm over submarine attacks, did not elaborate, but it was assumed that he would ask Congress to increase America's naval safeguards and limit the passage of U. S. ships into the war zones.

President Roosevelt was expected to ask for provision of the neutrality act lifting the arms embargo as first consideration of the special session, but other emergency problems such as protection of America's sea-borne commerce may be put on the agenda.

EARLY GIVES NEWS

It was believed the President feared that submarine warfare might somehow affect U. S. neutrality. It was recalled that the sinking of the Lusitania, by a German submarine, brought national indignation which culminated in war.

The disclosure that President Roosevelt was concerned over submarine warfare was made by Stephen T. Early, White House secretary. Early was asked whether developments in war-torn Europe had anything to do with calling of the special session. Early answered:

"European developments, particularly submarine operations such as the sinking of the Athenia, were considered in connection with the decision to make the call."

Evidence of President Roosevelt's concern over sea warfare was reflected previously when he ordered the U. S. Navy and Coast Guard to maintain surface and air patrols over the sea as far as 200 miles out.

EXPECTS

Early, in his statements, also indicated the President expected the special session of Congress to act quickly on the administration's proposal to lift the arms embargo, thus permitting sale of vital necessities of war to Europe's belligerents.

Early also indicated that the President hoped he could get Congress out of Washington in fairly short order once it convened. Early recalled that during the last 10 days the President had done a great deal of telephoning to legislative leaders in connection with the special session proclamation. They were believed to have told the White House that the President could obtain speedy action on his proposal to lift the arms embargo.

But in face of the administration claims that Congress was ready to lift the embargo, Senate foes mapped plans to delay action through exhaustive debate.

Early incidentally stated that the President's projected West Coast trip was "all but out" because of the European war and the pending special session of Congress.

A meeting will be held by the P. A. O'Connell, general treasurer, De Valera concert committee at 10 o'clock tomorrow. De Valera will be able to pay this country a visit. Funds will be distributed to various organizations if the Irish prime minister cancels his proposed visit.

NEUTRALS EAGER TO TRADE

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 14 (AP)—Warring Europe's neutral northern states, faced with the pressing necessity of protecting winter supplies, are seeking a means to maintain import and export trade without dangerously offending the belligerents.

What the neutrals would like to do already has been expressed by Finland's Foreign Minister Elias Erkkila, who said his country would try to maintain trade relations with warring nations "on an identical basis favoring neither side."

Premiers of Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland meet here Sept. 18 to discuss the situation. On the agenda is the question of what measures the Baltic states would take in the event of unrestricted submarine warfare.

'MUZZLE' BRITISH SHIPS

By the Associated Press
Great Britain tightened her anti-submarine campaign today by drastically limiting the substance of messages from ships at sea to points in the British Empire.

The Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company in New York reported it received a stringent order indicating that England was extending protection of her ships by shrouding their movements.

The regulation ordered deletion of dates or points of arrival and departure of ships from all messages sent to British points, adding that inclusion of such data would be "at the sender's risk."

Communications men interpreted the order as indicating the British were working at top speed to meet Germany's undersea thrust against British shipping.

The first 12 days of the war cost England 17 ships and France one. Germany has lost nine—including three which ran aground in avoiding mine fields—and neutrals four. None of any classification was added to the loss list yesterday—the first full day since war was declared that no new victims were reported.

France also quickened her efforts to clear the seas, reporting yesterday in a communique that French naval forces "reacted vigorously against a latest enemy submarine" French sources reported that 25 of 58 German submarines were in the seas, and described allied defenses against them as satisfactory.

Berlin Scoffs at Story Of So. America Bases

BERLIN, Sept. 14 (AP)—British charges that Germany was trying or intended trying to find submarine bases in Central and South America were denounced in a communique today as a "clumsy attempt to create panic among Latin-American nations."

The communique, issued through DNE, German official news agency, referred to the British Ministry of Information as the "Misinformation Ministry."

(The ministry last night said the British government had "reason to believe the enemy may attempt to establish submarine and air bases on the coasts of South and Central America.")

The German communique said that the British statement "cannot be considered as other than an attempt to poison the good, confidential relations between Germany and Latin-American nations and as a conscious step to mislead the American public."

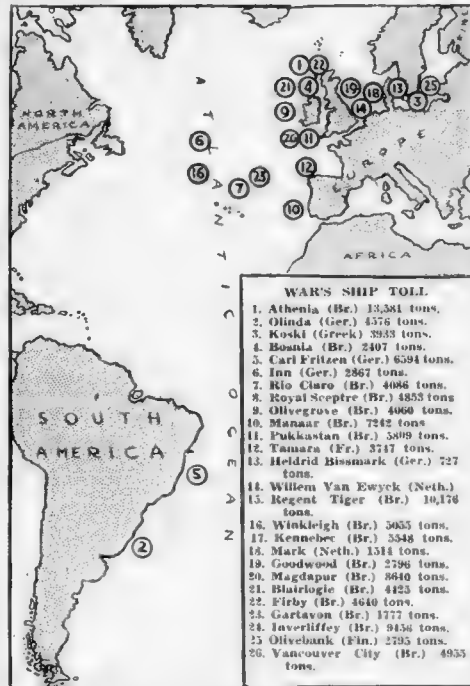

"It must be stated once again that Germany has no political or military ambitions of any nature in North, Central or South America."

Ford Sterling, Silent Film Comic, Dying

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14 (AP)—Growing steadily weaker, 52-year-old Ford Sterling, veteran comic of the silent films, was reported today to have "less than an even chance" for recovery.

Sterling was sent to a hospital nine months ago for treatment of thrombosis of the veins. His left leg was amputated August 10.

BRITISH, FRENCH IN 3-WAY PUSH IN SAAR

PARIS, Sept. 14 (AP)—French forces, supported by thousands of newly landed British troops, were reported today in military dispatches to be closing in from three sides on Saarbrücken, industrial center of the rich Saar basin.

Seizure of the city, the reports indicated, was considered vital to give the French a jumping off point for a wider attack against the heavily fortified Siegfried line.

Indications the polus were being hard pressed by concentrated German artillery fire came in an official war communiqué.

"Strong action by heavy enemy artillery on heights south of Saarbrücken," the communiqué said. French troops previously were reported moving heavy, long-range guns into the battle areas. The position of the firing batteries and the intensity of the shelling were not disclosed.

RAINS HAMPER WAR

German reinforcements were reported massing behind Saarbrücken to forestall a direct French attack and occupation of the Saar capital.

Heavy fighting was reported near Hornbach as the French troops pushed eastward in an attempted encircling movement.

Rain hampered operations along the 100-mile front between the Moselle and Rhine rivers, but military dispatches spoke of "substantial" gains.

(An International News Service dispatch from Geneva said

FOOD PLEASE?—Like any other soldier, Adolf Hitler, Germany's 'No. 1 Soldier,' draws rations at field kitchen during Nazi invasion. Hitler is carefully marking troops' progress in Poland.

Germany and France today sped shock troops to either side of the frontier immediately north of Basle. Pointing to an imminent attack which may mark the first "big push" of the western front.

(Troops were being rushed up to positions on the Rhine only a mile and a quarter north of the Swiss border, and army concentrations by both enemies were reported to be heavy.)

A "HOBSON" IN RHINE

(A boat of unknown nationality today was "accidentally" sunk at the mouth of Basle Harbor on the Rhine, practically closing it to all traffic. The harbor contained 500,000 tons of river shipping.)

German reinforcements were reported pouring into the areas behind Saarbrücken and opposite the French city of Strasbourg in northeastern France.

The French government declared officially that there already are "several hundred thousand" British troops in France. Officials said, however, that the British had not yet engaged in action, pointing out that it would take some time to concentrate supplies and dispose the units along the route.

READY FOR ARMY

French officials contrasted the appearance of the new troops with what they described as "the handful of heroes" who were thrown into the breach in the early days of the World War in an effort to stem the German advance from Belgium.

(A dispatch from Algiers, Spain, reported that 10 English troop transports had passed Gibraltar en route to France. Two British ships stopped at Gibraltar, one to disembark several thousand soldiers to reinforce the garrison and the other to unload war supplies.)

Plans for the reception of British reinforcements in France apparently had been worked out in great detail. Loaded down with war kits, the troops were barracked without obvious delay.

Berlin Admits French at Edge of Siegfried Line

BERLIN, Sept. 14 (INS)—The German high command began to give serious consideration to hostilities on the western front today as an official announcement admitted that French forces had advanced to the outposts of the Siegfried line.

Gdynia Falls Under Withering Fire

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Sept. 14—The rich seaport of Gdynia, Poland's greatest harbor and only maritime link with the rest of the world, surrendered and passed into German hands today.

An official announcement in Berlin stated that the Polish commander in Gdynia, who for two weeks had held out against a German onslaught by land, sea and air, surrendered to Gen. Eberhard, German commander-in-chief, at 8:10 a. m.

The city was occupied immediately by detachments of the German army.

As German war planes roared overhead and the guns on the east ship Schleswig Holstein were unlimbered for another day of ceaseless pounding at the city's defenses, a white flag went aloft from the Polish headquarters.

DEMANDS 100 HOSTAGES

The order to "cease fire" was given, and a few minutes later the Polish commander, flanked by members of his staff, came out into the open and informed General Eberhard that Gdynia had surrendered.

The German commander demanded a hundred hostages, including the mayor of the city, as a guaranty that the terms of surrender would be respected. The Poles agreed and German troops immediately marched into the center of the city.

An authoritative source in Berlin stated that the occupational troops "found many armed civilians."

Gdynia was in many ways the richest prize yet to fall to Adolf Hitler in his conquest of Poland. Throwing out new loops, and quickly closing in old rings, the German military machine to the south meanwhile sped on in its campaign of pushing forward ever-fresh salients and encircling great masses of Polish men and territory.

TELS OF DAILY GAINS

With Warsaw reported closed in on all sides, and Lemberg (Lwow) nearly throttled, another column shot southeastward from East Prussia towards Brest-Litovsk.

Several miles were gained in a day, Berlin authorities announced, capturing the fortress of Osowiec, the last Polish stronghold in the north.

(This movement may be pointed towards a juncture with the drive of another German army northeast of Radom. Union of the two columns might pocket a Polish area of more than 10,000 square miles).

RUSSIANS ACTIVE

Meanwhile, it was reported, the Russians are becoming active in Hitler, Stalin in Deal To Divide Up Poland?

BERLIN, Sept. 14 (INS)—A Russo-German deal for the partition of Poland was reported on reliable authority in Berlin today.

An understanding has been reached, it was reported, whereby Soviet Russia will occupy eastern Poland shortly. The occupation may be effected before German troops have even reached this area, or if they have, the Germans will withdraw and hand the territory over to the Russians.

The plan appeared to call for eventual creation of some sort of a central Polish state as a "buffer" between Germany and the U. S. S. R.

against Poland. Official reports from Moscow said Polish airmen five times violated Soviet territory, and five Polish planes were forced to land by Russian pursuit craft.

At two points northeast of Lemberg—Tomaszow and Rawa Ruska—the Germans said they cut the highway to Lublin, 100 miles from Lemberg.

Several Polish divisions "continued an efficient offensive between Kutno and Lodz," north and east of Lodz, "causing heavy casualties to the enemy," the general staff asserted.

Again and again the Germans struck at the old fortress of Modlin, at the confluence of the Vistula and Narew rivers northwest of Warsaw, but all assaults were reported "vigorously repelled."

UNDER TERRIFIC FIRE

Fifty German planes bombed Warsaw Wednesday, completely destroying a beautiful palace which had been converted into the Pilsudski Institute and used as a center of historical and sociological research.

Thirty German planes were brought down, Warsaw reported. Sixteen women and 25 children were killed when a large house in the Solbus section of Warsaw was destroyed, according to Polish broadcasts.

In an appeal to the public to keep up a stubborn fight, the Polish general staff predicted: "Just a few days more, and there will be an important and fortunate chance in the situation."

Germany's reply to Polish claims that the city of Lodz, in the "bag" west of Warsaw, was recaptured was brief and to the point. Chancellor Hitler, it was stated in Berlin, arrived in Lodz at 3 p. m. yesterday.

The German supreme army command today issued a communique, saying:

"As a temporary result of a destructive battle near Radom, 60,000 prisoners were taken, among whom were many generals, and 113 cannons and 38 armored cars."

Port That Cost Millions Now Hitler's Prize

BERLIN, Sept. 14 (INS)—The city of Gdynia, captured by Hitler's forces today, originally a sparsely inhabited fishing port on Danzig bay a few miles north of Zoppot, had been developed by the Poles during the last few years as their leading port as an alternative to Danzig itself. Between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 was poured into construction of fortifications and harbor facilities. The Polish-American line established its base there and huge motor liners such as the Batory and Pilsudski operated from Gdynia's mammoth piers and out through deep-dug channels into the Baltic and the Atlantic ocean.

'PEACE TRAP' LAID BY HITLER FOR F. D.

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 14—"What would Roosevelt do if—"

This is the question which today means more and is more profoundly studied and discussed among responsible allied quarters than any, even the military issue on the war front.

Publisher Dayton Dead in N.Y.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 The death yesterday of James C. Dayton, former publisher of the New York Journal, drew the final curtain on the career of a man the late Arthur Brisbane had described as one of the nation's "greatest publishers."

Mr. Dayton entered newspaper work as an advertising solicitor on the New York American in 1903. He became publisher of the New York Evening Journal in 1913.

BACK TO NEWSPAPERS

Mr. Dayton resigned as publisher on Feb. 1, 1928, after a quarter of a century with the Hearst newspapers to open his own office as an advertising consultant.

But his love for active newspaper work drew him back into the Hearst organization in March 1929, and he became general advertising counselor for all the Hearst newspapers.

At the time Mr. Dayton severed his connection with the New York Evening Journal he was given a testimonial dinner at the New York Athletic Club by his associates.

TRIBUTE BY BRISBANE

Mr. Brisbane, in a foreword to the dinner program, paid this tribute to Mr. Dayton:

"Of Mr. James C. Dayton these things can be said:

"He is one of the ablest and greatest newspaper publishers in the United States.

"He is a just man, kind-hearted and appreciative.

"He has made many friends, and kept them all."

Mr. Dayton was born on Sept. 19, 1862, in Mexico, N. Y., the son of the late Dr. Gilson A. Dayton and Frances Chandler Dayton.

Mr. Dayton's wife, Mrs. Julia G. McCallum Dayton, died in 1926. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Joseph H. Greenwood and Miss Katharine Dayton, and a son, Duncan McC. Dayton.

Tabor Prepares to Return Milk Pool

Samuel W. Tabor, federal milk administrator for the New England area, prepared today to divide the $2,871,751 milk equalization pool among 15,000 farmers who supply the Boston market.

The final obstacle to distributing the fund was removed when the New England Milk Producers' Association withdrew a petition to intervene.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache suddenly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and poisons out of the blood. They help most people pass about 2 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or many passages with burning and burning sensations (often there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder).

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the kidneys to do their duty. Doan's Pills are sold in all drug stores.

The question concerns Hitler's notorious so-called "peace offensive," which may not be quite so dead as was thought probable after Chamberlain and Daladier declared so conclusively that they would reject any attempt to negotiate over the corps of Poland.

PLOT TO TRAP F. D.

Now, however, International News Service learns, it has become increasingly probable that Hitler means to trap the Allies by way of President Roosevelt. He means to try and put the responsibility upon Mr. Roosevelt for continuance of the war or establishment of peace at the cost of Poland.

(Editor's Note: This story was deleted by the London censor and later allowed to pass in the following form.)

Hitler's plan is believed now to be about as follows:

After further progress in Poland perhaps after the capture of Warsaw—although that is not essential—he will offer peace to Poland and will appeal to President Roosevelt as the representative of the greatest neutral country, as a man who has constantly labored for peace and as one who, in previous crises, had called for settlement by negotiation.

It will be carefully ignored that President Roosevelt's pre-war appeals for peace were made in order precisely to prevent what Germany is just doing to Poland.

AIDS F. D.'S FOES

The appeal to Mr. Roosevelt will be accompanied or immediately followed by a declaration from Hitler that he would willingly make peace, thus throwing upon the Allies the onus of refusal.

Now, there is not the faintest doubt as to what the attitude of the Allies will be, nor do many who know the mind of President Roosevelt have any notion that he could be trapped by such an obvious maneuver.

Nevertheless, it is felt in London that it will be an element of embarrassment for the President, who is compelled to consider the militant hostility of the country's isolationists to him and his policies.

"HITLER ONLY ISSUE"

Hence genuine anxiety is felt lest the President might fail to understand that from the allied point of view it would be extremely harmful if he should answer such an appeal otherwise than by ruthless exposure of its true intention.

Otherwise the allies would not be satisfied now even with the most far-reaching concessions by Hitler, not even by complete withdrawal of German troops from Poland, which is inconceivable.

They take the stand that Germany's attack upon Poland constitutes an injury which cannot be made good simply by withdrawing troops.

Poland is no longer the issue.

The issue is Hitler.

Foss Rites Set For Tomorrow

Flags on the State House and Boston City Hall will fly at half mast tomorrow afternoon during the funeral of Eugene Noble Foss, three times Governor of Massachusetts, former congressman and for more than 25 years a leading industrialist in the State.

Leading citizens of the Commonwealth will pay him final tribute at services to be held in his Riverside st., Jamaica Plain, home at 2 o'clock. Burial will be at Forest Hills cemetery.

LODGE HAS 'NEUTRAL
U. S' PLAN

U. S. Sen. Herbert Lodge, Jr., will call to special session of Congress next week a "dilemma plan" and strict neutrality, this country in the East was announced today.

The group, the famous Massachusetts station of the first World War declined to reveal details of the plan, stating that he favored the use of it with his colleagues in the Senate. He said:

"My object is, first, to keep America out of war and, second, to prevent adoption of any so-called neutrality program that would cause temporary boom of industry which would inevitably follow by a slump and a period of depression more ruinous than that which followed the World War."

"I am even all-armed to prevent a change of American boy's life that I oppose the growth of a big war-sustained foreign industry such a trade in mainly as in."

Youngest rabbi ever to head an important synagogue post, Dr. Joshua Liebman, 32, preached his first sermon at Temple Israel, Commonwealth Ave., today. Dr. Liebman, shown here in rabbinical robes, was head of Chicago's Kam Temple.

He did research work in Jerusalem and graduated from Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati.

'Reveres' to Ride
In Neutrality Fight

The "Paul Reveres of Massachusetts" will ride once again.

This time the patriotic group of Paul Reveres will ride on trucks of steel to the nation's capital and protest to the President and Congress during the special session, over any change in our present neutrality laws.

Led by Albert F. McCulloch, Boston business man and president of the organization, the organization has formulated plans for the march on the capital shortly after Congress convenes next Thursday. During the spring of last year the same group of "Paul Reveres" caused considerable comment in Washington when more than 100 patriots invaded the halls of Congress and loudly protested passage of President Roosevelt's organization bill.

Several Congressmen credited the local group with having played an important part in the defeat of the bill the day following their historic visit.

The first step in the "Paul Reveres" neutrality protest was in the form of a letter sent to Massachusetts Congressmen and Sen.

Sen. Lodge and Walsh today ask for their united support to defeat any change.

Pay 'Star Spangled Banner' Honor Today

BALTIMORE, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Army and the Navy turned out today to help "The Star Spangled Banner" celebrate its 125th birthday.

Along with the roles played by the military, Paul V. McNutt, head of the Social Security Administration, was invited to make the principal speech, buttressed by U. S. Sen. George Badcliffe, and army airplanes were called to take part in another celebration at night.

The Army was detailed to defend Fort McHenry, under fire in 1814 when Francis Scott Key wrote the song which officially became the national anthem 117 years later. The Navy's part was to simulate the British fleet trying to turn the flank of the Baltimore defenses.

A replica of the flag which flew over the fort defended for 24 hours by Lieut. Col. George Armistead, was brought out to fly again from the towering flagstaff. Key's song, designated the national anthem in a law signed by President Hoover in 1931, was instantly popular in Baltimore Bay who had been absent a month trying for the release of a bond held by the British. Turned to a transcript over to one of the volunteer officers the same day the British fleet withdrew. It was passed that night as a handbill, and first sung by Charles Burleigh, a restaurant owner of the day, in a Baltimore restaurant.

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen

Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have noticed real embarrassment because their teeth dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just acquire a little LIGGETT'S, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plate. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Not PASTETTES at any drug store.

Hitler Unmasked!

In previous chapters Emil Ludwig has told of Hitler's rise to power and given a revealing account of the early influences and happenings that made him as he is. He also explained why the German people have been forced, willy-nilly, to follow Hitler's dictates. Today Ludwig compares Hitler to Napoleon, Alexander and other great leaders and shows how his shortcomings make him fall far short of their marks.

By EMIL LUDWIG

(World's Most Famous Biographer)

CHAPTER SIX

PSYCHIATRISTS recognize this craving to forget a defeat or an emotional wound suffered during one's youth by building up gigantic images of one's self. Napoleon is Hitler's ideal. When a dozen years ago my book on Napoleon was published, Hitler read it several times and made big red marks throughout, as his friend Strecker—later murdered by Hitler—recounted in 1926. Some emigrants have since accused me jokingly, claiming I am responsible for the whole mess!

To outdo Napoleon in greatness is Hitler's favorite dream. He forgets, however, that Napoleon was in one respect superior to all his contemporaries: he was the greatest soldier and strategist of his period, whereas across the face as they stood before him without arms, suddenly broke into tears, as described by Goebbels in his book, when he was appointed Reich Chancellor. In contrast, when Mussolini, in his newspaper queried his minister why the price of salt in Marseille had risen by two sous.

Generally, nobody must contradict Hitler. If someone tries it Hitler will walk to the window, drum with his fingers against the pane and wait until the official has departed.

In moods of ecstasy he suddenly, like lightning out of the clouds, breaks out with his decision. Then no effort is too great for him, then for 24 hours he can command, discuss, fly, dictate, without sleep, without great novel and selects its heroes insofar as they represent outstanding characters, even though they may have suffered defeat. When Napoleon died he was vanquished as a strategist, deposed as a ruler—a man without successor—yet, he became one of the greatest men of his millennium.

The psychologist must visualize the historic mission of his generation as if it had been buried for a hundred years; he must not be deluded by momentary successes. Adolf Hitler's place in history is uncertain only in that nobody today knows the fourth and fifth acts of the drama of his life; that is, whether he will still be witness to the collapse of his idea of world domination. The only certain fact is that he can never join the circle of the great men of history. There is no eminent man with such a face, such style, such a lack of ideas.

However, Hitler can be compared in fairness only to modern men who faced conditions of a similar nature. The best comparison I can find is the example of Napoleon III albeit the latter was vastly superior to Hitler in culture and morals. During 19 years, this Emperor's power was such that all Europe would eavesdrop and tremble at the question whether on New Year's Day he had talked for ten or only three minutes with the Ambassador of a particular country. But then, in the 20th year of his rule, the first defeat swept away his empire, his name, his glory. Today, the French hate him, and the world has forgotten him as though for two decades he had not been Europe's most feared man. Had he not borne the name of his great uncle, even that name would have been forgotten.

BUT the name of Victor Hugo, who, as an exiled poet, fought him passionately for 20 years, is known to all. And yet, this poet had been derided in his time for his rebellion. Continued on Page 34, Column 1

Hitler in Vienna

EMIL LUDWIG WRITES: "Napoleon is Hitler's ideal . . . To outdo Napoleon in greatness is Hitler's favorite dream. He forgets, however, that Napoleon was in one respect superior to all his contemporaries: he was the greatest soldier and strategist of his period, whereas Hitler would not even be capable of manning a machine gun."

Hitler would not even be capable of manning a machine gun. On the other hand, Hitler decidedly is the greater orator of the two, and this he must prove to himself again and again. This explains why year after year he goes on a great propaganda campaign throughout Germany. This roaring through the air from one city to the next; these rows of troops presenting arms, of hailing crowds; these radiant meeting halls; these spotlights, loudspeakers, flags, and music bands all replace for him what the old-time soldier was the thunder of cannon.

There he is the great strategist, and his oratory confirms his power to himself, until finally the tormenting resentment complex about his failure as an artist falls asleep as he decrees construction of the greatest hall in the world, the widest auto road in the world, the fastest airplanes in the world.

Such high-strung personalities suddenly lapse into a state of sadness or brutality. The same man who, on June 30, 1934, whipped his own friends office in Milan, received a telegram from the King requesting him to take over the government, he pushed open the door to his brother's room and shouted: "Paper for an extra!"—"What's going on?"—"The appointment!" and he slammed the door.

Hitler, a man wavering between fierceness and tears, at the same time fears the castles and palaces he is having built for himself. He lives, an innate little bourgeois, in a country home among pictures of the type a bourgeois would prefer—pictures by Guelzner on which laughing monks lift their glass of wine, or "The Sin" by Stueck, on which a serpent coils around a greenish sullen beauty. Or he sits with his family fully three hours in a Munich cafe, with plenty of whipped cream and apple pie. Suddenly again he is overcome by his architectural plans and rages if a minister calls his attention to the costs, for he does not like to be bothered with details. The real genius of action, however, has always been interested in details, and Napoleon food. Thus he makes history for a few days.

After such a week of utter tension he retires as suddenly, makes himself invisible to everyone and strolls in the forest of his mountain home, accompanied only by his dog and his hippopotamus whip.

IF THE permanence of their deeds were the criterion for the fame of statesmen, neither Alexander nor Napoleon could possibly be famous, for their empires vanished instantly with their life and their power.

Under Lincoln the United States suffered the hardest stroke of its history; at his death, he left it frightfully weakened. The fact that all three have not only been famous in the world but loved by their own people, must be attributed solely to the projection of their personalities: not because they were good, but because they had great proportions. "Extraordinary personalities," said Goethe, "move beyond the limits of ordinary mortality and in the end had an elemental effect, like water and fire."

Posterity views history as a

Ex-Kaiser and Wife at Doorn

LUDWIG WRITES: "It will always remain significant in German history that twice in succession this great nation waxed enthusiastic over hysterical leaders . . ."

IN THESE world-troubled times one of the most important responsibilities that now confront the teachers of America is to see that our children are indoctrinated with a love of THIS country and that no propaganda for ANY SIDE in the European conflict shall be poured into their ears.

James Marshall, president of the Board of Education of New York City, has made a statement to the teachers of the public schools of the city in which he says, after paying tribute to the teachers who "have expended their energies to guard and preserve democratic institutions":

"As teachers, they must be on guard not to encourage hatred or unreasoning passion in the children whom they are training for a democratic civilization.

"I am certain that our teachers will almost unanimously accept that principle (the President's stand for neutrality) as their own."

This appeal was followed by one from Dr. Harold G. Campbell, superintendent of schools, who said:

"In view of the world conditions today, the schools should lose no opportunity to present to our pupils incidents in the history of our nation which will arouse a love of country and loyalty to democratic ideals.

"Two important anniversaries occur within the next few days. September 14 marks the 125th anniversary of the writing of 'The Star Spangled Banner' and September 17 the anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution by the Constitutional Convention and its transmission to the States for ratification. Exercises suitable to the age and ability of the children should be held in all schools."

Patriotic appeals to teachers like President Marshall's and Superintendent Campbell's should be made in every city in the country.

And there should be celebrations throughout the nation, particularly in our schools, commemorating the birth of the Flag and the adoption of that Constitution which has given us the greatest and freest school system in the world.

American children should be taught AMERICANISM now more than ever before.

JEWISH PEOPLE of the world are observing Rosh Hashonah, ushering in the year 5700 and marking the first of the ten days of penitence, most important religious season in their calendar.

Forgiving and asking forgiveness, they turn to God, trusting that He in His everlasting mercy will speedily deliver their race and other races from the unjust persecutions of nations and men that use hatred and bigotry for selfish purposes.

This year, with war abroad and outrages continuing, there is much to forgive.

But the strength of character and the power of faith that have sustained the Jewish people for sixty centuries will not diminish.

And, with God's help, the day will soon come when the Jews of all lands will enjoy the respect and happiness they deserve.

TEACHER'S APPLE

will no longer be provided by Little Mary in Wakefield; henceforth, instructors will buy their own fruit.

The ban on the historic method of courting teachers' good will is a result of the School Committee's belief that all children should receive the same consideration in the classroom and that gifts by the sons and daughters of the more fortunate families ought to be discouraged.

Not all readers will agree, particularly not those who remember their own teachers and recall that very seldom were they influenced by apples, bouquets of flowers and other symbols of childish affection.

Perhaps, that is why some Wakefield residents are already voicing the opinion that officials would serve better if they worried less about apples and gave more attention to the tax rate, which, incidentally, went up this year.

AMERICAN PROGRESS

in man's ceaseless warfare against disease was convincingly illustrated at Chicago's recent Third International Congress for Microbiology.

And typhus, more lethal in the past than bullets and poison gas, was reported conquered by a newly-discovered vaccine, produced by growing the virus that causes the plague on agar, a gelatin made from seaweed, and then killing this virus with carbolic acid.

It is interesting to note that the discoverers of this important contribution to medical knowledge are Dr. Hans Zinsser of Harvard and Miss Florence FitzPatrick of Boston.

Thus, this city, where ether was first used and where liver was found beneficial in the treatment of anaemia, continues her humanitarian pioneering.

It is also an illustrious example of the good the United States can do by preserving its neutrality, keeping out of wars abroad and protecting the civilization other nations would destroy.

The Meadow Lark

HOW often will a random-spoken word . . . change a life's current! —As a boy I heard . . . the sweet song of a mating meadow lark . . . and in my soul it kindled a bright spark . . . something within me then was deeply stirred . . . Day dreams I dreamed as boys are apt to do . . . and time's fulfillment saw the dreams come true.

The lark, alas! took wing and flew away . . . not knowing what its song had done that day.

Human Side of News

By EDWIN C. HILL

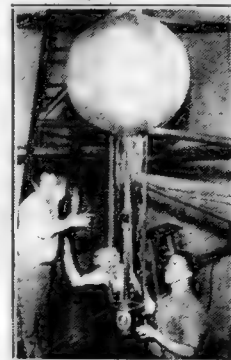

THERE IS JUST a possibility that this spitting of a uranium atom at Columbia University and Professor Samuel Allison's experiments in Chicago may be a bigger story than the doings of any of the dictators, who discourage "pure" science and direct research to immediately practical concerns.

Important news is that the atom gunners freed more energy than they used up. The experiments were reported as "yielding the largest conversion of mass into energy that has yet been obtained by terrestrial methods." Does that revive the old cliché about the energy of a lump of sugar driving the Queen Mary across the Ocean? From all I can learn, it does.

THE LAW of the conservation of energy, like the old gay man, isn't what it used to be, and scientists may yet show us how to reap where we have not sowed.

Milikan, Rutherford and many other famous physicists have opposed the theory that infinite energy might be locked up in a few atoms. But the fact remains that for the last decade Science has been directing a terrific bombardment against the atom, an unceasing assault of electronic gunnery, in which countless billions of volts have been hurled into this stubborn citadel.

And now, using only one-thirtieth of a volt, they loose two atomic canbombs of 100,000,000 electron-volts each, a return of

AIMING AT ATOMS
Dr. Allison and Students

6,000,000,000 times on their energy investment.

In spite of the discouragement of research science in Germany, with the new emphasis on the immediately useful, much of the preliminary campaigning in the atom battle was done by German scientists at the Kaiser Wilhelm Research Institute in Berlin.

Others were Professor Enrico Fermi, of Rome, now in this country, and the distinguished Professor Niels Bohr, of Denmark, whose new conception of the atom, nearly 20 years ago, cleared the way for the tremendous advance in the understanding of matter in the last few years.

The sun shines for all, on Aryans and non-Aryans, on totalitarians and democrats. And it was the stir of curiosity in this field of cosmic internationalism that started at this, apparently triumphant, blasting of the atom.

WHY DOESN'T the sun burn up? It was this single question, one of the most natural and one of the most elusive, which led to much of our new understanding of the nature of the universe.

Considering the volume of heat-energy which the sun flings out into the universe through eons of time, and considering its known size and density, it should have burned up ages ago. But it doesn't.

The answer seemed to be that there were atomic goings on in the sun which released infinite energy without diminution of volume—hydrogen electrons, perhaps, jumping the fence of one of their concentric race tracks, with a concomitant freeing of energy.

Maybe we can do the same thing here. So reasoned the scientists, rigging their atom guns as the substitute for the sun's terrific gravitational and heat energy, which seems to be able to blast something out of nothing.

MY DAY

SWEETWATER, TENN., en route—I have just finished breakfast in a railway dining car. For a time I sat alone until Miss Thompson joined me. I had a Roanoke, Va., newspaper to read and it served as a good shield behind which I could observe my neighbors.

The train was filled with young girls, all pretty and full of life, evidently returning to school or college. One of them wore a thin gold chain with a cross on it around her neck. It took me back to my childhood when my grandmother gave me a similar one, and I thought of the people who lovingly bestow such a gift with a prayer in their hearts that it may protect the child. Well, the youngsters are going to need these prayers, for they face a troubled world.

I OPENED the paper with its headlines of war news. The editorials and columns I read all dealt with the war situation.

I spent three years in school in a country which was at war. Even though that war was many miles away and no one was in danger of bombing from the air, tension and war psychology were ever present.

No student of history can feel that every country has acted from the highest motives in its internal or foreign policy. All we can do is to judge things we wish to preserve in the world and to throw ourselves into the development and accomplishment of these things, first at home and then abroad. We must not forget that what we do at home has an effect on the world situation.

FIRST LADY WAVES GOODBYE TO HYDE PARK
Turns to Newspapers for Real Information About War

Curious how we have settled down again after our first flurry of excitement and now turn to our newspapers for real information. Most of us have discovered that war shifts people about so rapidly. The commentators on the air are of necessity obliged to give a changing picture, and a real picture can only be given over a longer period of time.

One young man tried to stop to smoke in the train.

but before I looked up the steward of the car had gently moved him on. Probably he felt that I must be protected!

At that moment I was reading an item in the paper which I thought interesting and a sensible development in education. A high school in Roanoke, Va., is offering the boys a course in domestic science with credits.

They are to learn about the buying of clothes, the running of machinery in the home, and a variety of other subjects which will make them more useful and perhaps more understanding of their mothers and future wives.

MILICENT ROGERS ON WAY HOME

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—Millicent Rogers Balcom, former wife of Count Salm, will return to this country next week . . . Sophie Tucker, who almost was responsible for a controversy, involving all American entertainers, because she sided with Ralph Whitehead, last night declared: "I'm still with Whitehead, and never will change" . . . Lillian Taiz, wife of Sam Jaffe—the screen actor whose last appearance was in "Gunga Din"—will make her debut in grand opera. She'll have the Marguerite role in "Faust," with the New York Opera Company.

OSCAR LEVANT read some of the reports that he is affianced to June Gale . . . Miss Gale is in Hollywood now, and so Levant telephoned her . . . Her sister answered the telephone and told Oscar that June refuses to speak to him . . . "I don't blame her," Levant replied, "but this is a long-distance call and I'm paying for three minutes anyway—so put SOMEONE on the phone" . . . June's sister obliged and got somebody to talk to Levant until the three minutes had expired.

GEORGE JESSEL now is telling this about his Hollywood experiences . . . When Universal signed him for $1500 a week Jessel received no assignment for six months . . . None of the officials answered his calls and he received no visitors—until Alfred Vanderbilt came to his office to say good-bye before going to Honolulu . . . Five minutes after Vanderbilt left, Jessel was called to the office of an executive . . . "That's a fine thing," Jessel shouted, "A. G. Vanderbilt had to visit me before anybody would call to give me an assignment" . . . "It's not about an assignment," George was assured. "I want to know—did he give you a tip on any of the races at Santa Anita today?"

MIRIAM VERNE, the young lady who danced for Hitler and who just returned here, is telling friends that she just couldn't help it—that she went to work in Germany because it was tough getting jobs here . . . The Italian Consulate would like visitors to believe that the Bremen headed for Russia . . . Lepke Buchalter is confident that some fugitives are troubled most by the lack of sleep—because of their mistrust of those harboring them.

THE LARGEST advertising banner in the world, an 8,600 square feet display, was secured by Michael Todd to publicize his production of "The Hot Mikado" at the Fair grounds . . . Grover Whalen saw the banner, which he couldn't avoid doing, and suggested to Todd: "Has that banner an officially approved stamp?" . . . "Does it need an official stamp?" Todd innocently inquired. And so the banner now has a stamp-mark: "Officially Approved" . . . Mr. Todd merely had ordered such a rubber stamp made for him—and used it.

JUNE GALE

MEMORANDUM TO SENATOR WALSH: Based on information from a source which this reporter correctly esteems as truthful and reliable, we are ready today to predict your political future on two major points, as follows: (1) You will reject the reported offer of the Secretaryship of the Navy . . . (2) You will be a candidate next year to succeed yourself as U. S. Senator . . . Meantime, and after your re-election, if it happens, you will continue to serve as chairman of the Senate Naval Appropriations Committee . . . And it is with this part of your career that this memorandum is concerned.

IN THE DAY'S BUSINESS, Senator, could you find time to dictate a brief note to this column and answer the following questions? . . . Was a law passed at the past session of Congress, without much debate and with a modicum of publicity, calling for all Navy contracts—supplies, equipment and construction—to be awarded on a "maximum profit of cost plus 30 per cent"? . . . Isn't a "cost plus 30 per cent basis" too liberal for even so generous a gentleman as Uncle Sam? . . . (Editor's Note—Ships aren't built in a day, George. After contracts are awarded, costs frequently go up. Also, wages are sometimes higher in one part of the country than in another. The Committee recognized these facts. And our New England shipyards benefited. That's why.)

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Milady's headgear for the football season and winter will be military in style . . . Leery of propaganda, there are ultra-suspicious souls who say this is the subtlest bit of propagandizing to date . . . Because this year's skimmers are making a hit with the gals . . . Daniel (The Large) Carroll had a deuce across the board on that $216 boss of Mary Hirsch's . . . And Rocky Palladino, the owner of Remarkable, had a $5 wager on the animal's nose . . . (He must have split one of the tickets as only $2 tickets were reported sold) . . . Nancy Healy, the Weehawken tap-dancing flash at the Coconut Grove, is Danny Healy's niece . . . Danny hoofed in the Pollies twenty years ago and is one of the really popular denizens of the Broadway Jungle . . . For years he has been staging the successful Cotton Club shows in New York, and for years he has been in love with Helen Kane.

WELL, Helen Kane is on the verge of a comeback . . . the erstwhile "boop-boop-a-deep girl" (thank goodness, she's giving up being that) was booked to open at Ben Marden's Riviera when Ben got tangled up with the Law . . . Over the teacups early today, Dan's niece, Nancy, sold Barnett Welansky a bill of goods . . . Her aunt-to-be, Miss Kane, will get an offer from Mr. Welansky (owner of the Grove) today . . . Helen's comeback will begin here, if terms are O. K.

THE WILLIAM J. KENNEDYS (Audubon Stable) are cleaning up at the Brockton Fair's horse show . . . Mrs. Kennedy (Audrey) loves their great 8-year-old jumper, and Will's pet is Little Squire, the spectacular grey-white timber-topper who has been a sensation in the rings for a year . . . Erin's Son and Little Squire finished one-two in the open jumping class . . . It's a good thing the Kennedys are a perfect couple.

PLAN ANN SHERIDAN
TOUR IN EAST

By Louella O. Parsons

Ann Sheridan

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14—Ann (Gomph) Sheridan is traveling East, September 23, to do her bit toward helping the American film market. She will have four weeks of personal appearances, opening at the New York Strand, October 5. Just so the small hamlets and cities will know it is Sheridan herself, the star in which she travels will be called "Gomph." She will be accompanied by a maid, a dresser and secretary—all because this is her very first visit to New York.

Aside from the personal exploitation aspects of the Sheridan trip, Warners are motivated by a desire to really do something for the exhibitors. Later thirty players will be sent out to make appearances so that business will be boosted. Recently Claire Windsor and Lya Lys returned from a tour and, while they are not big names, the theaters where they appeared did big business.

JANE WYMAN

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Gus Edwards, so well loved in theatrical circles, is very, very sick; the Smiley Burdette has adopted a baby girl seventeen months old, and is Smiley thrilled! Charlie Chaplin fell on his face laughing over Jack Oakie's act . . . is signed him, of course. The last Chaplin scenes have been filmed and are in the can—and that's history; Tilly Losch wonders that she has gone to Carnation Castle with her bridegroom, Lord Carnarvon, and is caring for twenty war children billeted there; Dr. Joel Fressman took the Chipper for Honolulu yesterday on a vacation and it's my guess that Claudette Colbert will follow him.

ANN SOTHERN has put her foot down and refused to let Roger Pryor continue his flying lessons, the victory dinner at the Masquers was a real event, according to my favorite doctor, who was there. He said the actors paid great tribute to Ralph Morgan and Kenneth Thomson, who are credited with averting the strike; Lew Ayres was having himself a good time at the Cafe Lamaze with June Gale, Billy Baskwell and a girl I didn't recognize. Maybe I should have asked her name.

RUTH CHATTERTON opens in Cincinnati the 25th in "You Can't Eat Goldfish"; Billy Seymour and Jane Wyman do a repeat at the Victor Hugo's. Her steady company, Ronald Reagan, returns soon, and then it will be interesting to see what happens; Jackie Coogan and Norma Hall, the Costello heiress, stepdaughter to the Johnny Warburtons, stepping out. Jackie leaves Saturday for New York to begin rehearsals for "What A Life."

DAILY STORY

Sophistication

THE MOMENT my eyes met Martin's over the introductions of our hostess, I knew I was a "goner." For this was the man I had dreamed of through adolescent dates with high school boys; a man who was not only handsome and distinguished, but SOPHISTICATED!

Sophistication was, to my naive point of view, the ultimate achievement; foolishly I felt that, without at least a semblance of that mysterious quality, I could not hope to interest this man whom I wanted to marry more than I had ever wanted anything or would again.

And, silly girl that I was, I hinted at a past, with a manner which hinted subtly that my soul had emerged from a sordid contact, sadder, wiser, a little cynical.

Intending only that I should appear older and more experienced in his eyes, and too ignorant of the workings of a man's mind to know what details his experience would add.

WORDS CANNOT describe my intense happiness the night we became engaged. We had been married less than a month, however, when I began to realize that my husband was suspicious of my every move; my every word and smile.

Jealous of that nebulous figure of the past in which I had made him believe, with the result that he felt he could not trust me now!

Still naive, believing the solution simple, I cuddled in his arms that night and confessed the truth, that there had never been any other man. But he did not believe me!

I had planted the seed of suspicion in the mind of a jealous man and was to reap a harvest out of all proportion to its beginning.

THE END came the night my husband came home, reeling drunkenly, called me every abusive name he could think of, and collapsed on the bed, sobbing: "Oh, Kathy, what can I do? I was so sure I wouldn't let it matter after we were married, but I can't forget! I can't!"

Sophistication? It was no more than a thin veneer, for, notwithstanding the affairs a man may have had, he still demands that his wife be above reproach.

Yes, we have gone our separate ways, unable to destroy, even between us, the ghost of a past which never existed.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WE HUMANS have a mistaken idea that love's a natural habit . . . one of those things that "just happen" without particular or prolonged effort on our part—like breathing, laughing, sleeping. And if it doesn't proceed as per schedule, something's wrong, probably with the Other Fellow.

Nothing could be further from the truth. Far from being natural, love is one of the most complicated and difficult habits to learn and retain.

Some of our most fantastic myths center around Family Affection. It is a treasured tradition that all Mothers "love" their children; that all normal children return their devotion . . . and heaven help the rash soul who challenges this cherished notion. Yet daily we see pitiful proof that it's fallacious.

IN LOVE'S NAME, parents meddle, mislead, thwart, bully and exploit their children—and in love's name, children impose and deceive and make preposterous demands. Nor is this because Parents are a bunch of stupid or malicious Meanies . . . or children a Gang of Young Grafters. It all arises from our ignorance concerning love and its proper expression.

We confuse love with reactions which have nothing whatever to do with it . . . which are, actually, simply a matter of chemistry. Practically all animals pass through a period of possessive relationship toward their young . . . as their young, in turn, are for a time dependent upon them. BUT THAT IS NOT LOVE.

Nor, by the same token, is Junior's spring-time frenzy the Great Passion. They are both Nature's expedient for reproducing and preserving the species.

LOVE IS GOD'S last and greatest gift to man . . . humanity's most civilized and most perilous adventure. It took man millions of years to learn how to strike a spark from flint . . . it will take him millions more to learn how to use the divine fire in his own heart. LOVE IS NOT A FEELING . . . IT IS A SACKED SERVICE, CALLING FOR THE UTMOST DISCIPLINE, INTELLIGENCE AND TACT.

No one can perform that service intuitively. It must be learned, step by step, and maintained with a life-long struggle. For one does not always love easily or with delight. There are times when all our natural instincts, our human selfishness, laziness and cowardice fight furiously against such responsibility.

But love must go on, and only a full appreciation of its worth-wholeness can make us willing to carry it out.

Dead Strew Warsaw As Rain Pours Down

BUDAPEST, Sept. 14 (AP) Heavy autumn rains, for which all Poland has been praying in the hope they would hamper Germany's motorized forces, were reported today to have begun in the vicinity of Warsaw during the night.

Meanwhile, Warsaw, still holding out against repeated German thrusts, was a city half in ruins, its plight rendered serious by a growing food shortage and severe communication lines.

Radio broadcasts, virtually the only source of news from the beleaguered city, pictured scenes of death and desolation as a prolonged bombardment by land and air forces continued.

BODIES STREW STREETS

Describing the situation in Warsaw in a broadcast from the capital, Capt. Wladyslaw Polenski of the Polish air force said the entire Praga district was in ruins and that many bodies—some of women and children—lay in the shell-scattered streets.

"Many people were killed inside churches where they had sought safety," he said. "Others died in cemeteries where tombstones were smashed and bodies scattered about."

Polenski declared the Germans had used incendiary bombs and had "shelled and machine-gunned" panicked crowds.

"Hospitals were pitiful sights during the air raids," the broadcaster said.

MERCILESS BUTCHERY

A staff officer who broadcast a description of fighting said roads were "blocked with smashed lorries, carts, dead soldiers, women and children."

"Bombs explode constantly amid crowds of people running away," he said. "Tanks rumble into view spitting fire. Soldiers and women attack the modern monsters with bunched hand grenades."

Major Starynski, mayor of the capital, who delivered his daily appeal to the Warsaw populace to stand fast, declared that the city's defenders are "all heroes whose nerves remain excellent, with few exceptions."

He disclosed that "only one plate of food is being allowed a day in Warsaw."

Diet Hoard Big Puzzle

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Speaking of food hoarding, there is a grocery mixer who is still looking for a fish he hid in 1911. So are his neighbors.

It's all right to hide a piece of pie and a good cup of coffee, but what kind of food does a man hoard when he is on a diet?

And how many dyspepsia tablets do you store away with a furtive plate of ambushed corned beef and cabbage?

British Release Big Dutch Liner

LONDON, Sept. 14 (INS)—Two days overdue at Rotterdam, the 36,000-ton Nieuw Amsterdam, flagship of the Holland-America line, was temporarily held by British warships during a search for contraband, it was revealed today.

The ship, detained at an unexplained port, was released yesterday and permitted to proceed on her journey.

(New York officials of the Holland-America line said the smaller steamer Pennland also was overdue at Antwerp. "But," said Gen. Mgr. Peter Van Den Toorn, "such delays are to be expected and have been anticipated by the company." The Nieuw Amsterdam was scheduled to start for New York tomorrow with 1200 passengers, and the Pennland was slated to carry 700 back to America beginning Saturday.)

Release of the American black diamond liner Black Osprey, which was taken to Weymouth Sept. 6, while enroute from New York to Antwerp, was announced today by the British ministry.

DOOMED LWOW NOW AFLAME

LWOW, Poland, Sept. 14—Regardless of whether the slowly retreating Polish army is able to stem the German advance, this city of 316,000 population is doomed.

Bombed from the air for 14 days and battered by artillery during the past week, Lwow is a giant torch. A red glow, cast over the city by flames from burning oil refineries, makes a grim mockery of air raid precautions.

Other fires are burning in many sections of the city. Shattered aqueducts have emptied the reservoir from which Lwow draws its water supply and efforts to quench the flames with sand are pitifully ineffectual.

An acute food shortage, the danger of plague and the horror of bombing attacks have reduced the remaining residents to a state of panic. Over all hovers the fear that the Germans may enter the city and any moment.

The panic is particularly acute among the Jewish community which numbers approximately 100,000. In shell-scarred synagogues, the Jews began their New Year celebration by offering up prayers for rain which they hoped might halt the march of the German army.

All railroad junction terminals in the city have been wrecked by bombs, disrupting train travel. As fast as the Poles can repair vital rail lines they are destroyed by German bombers.

Many passenger trains derailed by the bombs lie along the tracks. Not only military caravans but private cars have been machine-gunned from the air as well as bombed.

2 Saved by Girl At Everett Blaze

It's a little disconcerting to return to one's home and find it on fire. That's what happened to Miss Sarah L. Blomley, 21, early today when she got back to Autumn st., Everett.

With flames spreading up through the house the girl aroused Frank Cushing, on the first floor, and helped her mother, Mrs. Sarah Blomley, to safety from their second-floor apartment. Damage was estimated at $3500.

Nazis Pledge Poison Gas and Germ Ban

By CHARLES A. SMITH

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 14—The German government today promised to abstain from use of poison gas and the spreading of bacteria for the duration of the war if her enemies do likewise, while Great Britain pledged herself to humanized warfare insofar as is possible.

Nazi Papers Still Omit List of War Dead

BASEL, Switzerland, Sept. 14 (INS)—German newspapers, although the war with Poland has been going on for two weeks and France and Britain have been fighting 12 days, still carry no lists of the dead, Swiss reports said today.

Some papers mention casualties but place deaths always under 20. Nevertheless, Swiss quarters heard many trainloads of wounded are pouring into central Germany, and school-houses are being converted into hospitals.

The German pledge was revealed in the House of Lords by Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, while in the House of Commons, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain again warned the Reich that aerial bombing of open towns in Poland or elsewhere would meet with stern reprisals.

"Whatever length the others may go to," he added, "however, His Majesty's government will never resort to deliberate attack upon women, children and other civilians for the purpose of mere terrorism."

WOULD AVENGE POLAND

Chamberlain made his statement when questioned concerning the communique issued by Hitler's field headquarters yesterday, in which it was asserted that activities of civilian snipers in Poland had compelled the German artillery and air force to go into action against towns and cities.

He reiterated the reprisal warning voiced by Lord Halifax yesterday and added:

"In the meantime, it must be remembered that all strategy and tactics must at all stages be governed by one consideration—namely, effective prosecution of war."

QUOTES GERMAN PLEDGE

"If German action of the kind suggested is taken, it will inevitably further strengthen the resolves of ourselves and our allies to prosecute the war and insure that the menace we are fighting is finally removed."

Hitler's pledge to refrain from poison gas and disease germs was revealed by Lord Halifax as follows:

"Germany has notified His Majesty's government that she will observe for the duration of the war the prohibitions concerning the use of poison gas and bacteria laid down in the Geneva protocol of June, 1925, but reserving full liberty of action in the event of its provisions being infringed by Germany's enemies."

'The Man Who Came to Dinner' Premiere at Plymouth

George Kaufman, Moss Hart Differ in Personal Tastes

George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, America's two most famous theatrical collaborators who are premiering their newest opus, "The Man Who Came to Dinner" at the Plymouth a week from Monday night, have a great deal in common, but they differ radically in their personal tastes.

Each has the same whimsical sense of humor, the identical sense of proportionate values without which, of course, it would be impossible for them to work together, but there the identity ceases.

Mr. Kaufman is retiring, shy and extremely diffident. Mr. Hart, to speak figuratively, wears his heart on his sleeve and is definitely the life of the party in every gathering which he attends. Mr. Kaufman will not consent to be interviewed. Mr. Hart will talk for publication at the drop of the proverbial hat.

Mr. Hart has a wanderlust. He refuses to "stay put" for long in one place despite the fact that he has now acquired two homes—a reconstructed Eighteenth Century stone farm house in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, and a Fifty-Seventh at mansion in New York. He's always remembering the spicy smells of Bali or that star-spangled night when he slipped Romance Conti, 26, on a terrace in Hawaii.

Mr. Kaufman, on the contrary, is a stay-at-home content to let the other fellow worry about sailing dates and time tables. He's been to Europe two times, once to direct a play in London, but he doesn't particularly care whether quite content to get his impressions of the Taj Mahal from picture in a travel book.

Mr. Hart, because of "The American Way," that impressive and gigantic historical pageant play, which they both wrote and which is just closing an eight months' engagement at the continuous Century Theatre in New York, has developed a taste for spectacular plays.

"I wouldn't be surprised," said Mr. Kaufman a few months after it was produced, "if Moss wouldn't want us to join together in the writing of a little thing calling for eight hundred actors, three canals and a herd of llamas. I'm all for simple little plays after that effort—two actors and one set, possibly a telephone booth." Their latest effort, "The Man

'La Traviata' Will Open Opera Season Tonight

Tonight at 8.30, the curtain will rise at the Boston Opera House on Verdi's "La Traviata."

It will be the New York Grand Opera Company's premiere presentation in its current series at the Opera House.

"Carmen" is listed for tomorrow evening, "Martha" for Saturday afternoon and "Rigoletto" for Saturday evening.

Cosma Vullo will sing the role of Violetta tonight, according to the announcement of Director Amadeo Passeri, with Georgia Standing, James Melton, Carlo Morelli, Alfredo Neill in assisting roles. Incidental Dances are by the New York Grand Opera Ballet, and guest artists will be Jose Fernandez and Morita, with Karsten Valbor and Nora Koreff as soloists. Giuseppe Bambeschek will conduct.

The two girls were classmates at school in Switzerland . . . Last June Portia was honored at a small luncheon given by her mother to celebrate her graduation from Milton Academy . . .

Mrs. James Simonds (Mary Porter Wardwell) was enjoying the novelty of being called "Auntie" for the first time . . . She had just heard from Chicago that a baby girl had been born Tuesday night to her sister Polly (Mrs. Chauncey Keep Hutchinson) . . . bringing grandparent honors to Polly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Wardwell of Brookline . . . Mrs. Simonds' luncheon costume was a sheer wool of her favorite green with a mink neckpiece and lustrous green suede hat . . .

Joanna Hoyt is another pretty post deb who has experienced the satisfaction of holding a job . . . and now that, her successful season as publicity director of the summer theater at Bass Rocks is ended, she is seriously considering an offer for a similar job on Broadway . . . If she goes to New York she will probably share a suite at the Barbizon with Leila Ernst of Brooklyn, who gained so much fame this summer through her movie tests and subsequent offer of a job in a new Broadway show . . .

AUSTEN LAKE

Yale Larry Kelley
Makes a Confession

I HAD DECIDED TO IGNORE LARRY KELLEY'S supercilious pap in a current jazz-journal as some more of that mental-muscle bound mischief belonging to the glue-factories of modern letters. But everybody else has taken a chew at it, so here's my two-cents worth.

AUSTEN LAKE

In my several opportunities to observe Kelley at close range during Yale football games he seemed to display the same average docile manners and good sense of any other American school kid. My impression was that he was slightly shy and that an imaginative press had manufactured into a brash goof.

One remembers he authored a Saturday Evening Post article some time ago which he wrote, "Though I wasn't the club house clown I was supposed to be, I'll admit that I was an opportunist. The reason that I got away with murder so often was I deliberately played for the breaks . . ."

Apparently Larry, thirsting for the calcium, is still "getting away with murder"—a kind of literary assassination of the college football scheme which he played glibly and gladly and of which he said after his final game, "I feel that I am saying farewell to the finest influence of my life. I hate to think that I will never again wear my Yale uniform." (His quotes.)

So now he indicts the "finest influence of his life" as a pernicious exploiter of youth and college coaches as a set of avaricious professionals who patch their cripples up and send them back to play just short of death. His "Poison Ivy League football" is a recitation of atrocities imposed upon pin-fuzz-cheeked adolescents. Excerpts—"Our fullback, Miles, was sent in to play, his knee hurt so badly we wondered if he'd be crippled for life"; "I was too weak to play football that day and I'm sure Ducky Pond knew it"; "Coaches are more interested in winning than safeguarding their boys"; "The Ivy League . . . is poison ivy to me."

The Doctors Have Command

THE FLAW IN KELLEY'S CASE is this. Every so-called "Ivy League" college (Ed note—There is no actual "league" except the natural association of the older major institutions whose antiquity is supposed to be gauged by the quantity of ivy on their walls) employs a staff of doctors to supervise play. The doctors have complete jurisdiction and no boy, sick, bruised or cut, may return to the lineup unless his medical card is certified.

More than that! The day of the hell-roaring, sulphur-spouting, eat-'em-alive coach went out with the passing of the Percy Haughton, Bob Fawcett, Foster Sanford and Frank Cavanaugh's. Today the Earl Blais, Dick Harlows, Lou Littles, Tuss McLaughry, Ducky Ponds, Tad Wieman's, and other Ivy Leagues teach football with the unemotional aplomb of a classroom professor. As a whole they are a conscientious set, quick to beckon an injured kid from the field and slow to send him back.

For example, in a 1936 Yale-Columbia game Larry Kelley was slightly dazed making a tackle. As he lay on the ground his coach, this same Ducky Pond, sent a substitute galloping across the field. "Kelley out!" panted the boy. "Kelley stays in," snorted Larry, shaking himself to see whether any legs would drop off. "Substitution refused." As captain of the team that was his right. So the substitute turned with a quizzical grin on his face and sauntered back to the Yale bench, whereupon Pond stamped up to the sidelines and thumbed his man off with a peremptory wave of his hand. Larry came surily, like a naughty boy caught with his hand in the cookie crock. I know because I was one of the officials.

Two Reasons Why

TWO THINGS MAY HAVE PROMPTED KELLEY to author his magazine grumble, (1) the fact that sensation loving editors pay literary hacksters well to poke through the human soul with some smelly tidbit to improve circulation and (2) the fact that he may have arrived at the later-day stage of disillusionment when the fan-fare, glamour and hullabaloo of college football has worn thin. One recalls how Dolph Cheek, a few years after serving as Harvard football captain, coined the CHICAGO, Sept. 14 AP)—Don Schumacher, young Dallas, Texas, star, who yesterday sent Johnny Goodman to the sidelines, became the first quarter finalist of the National Amateur Golf championship today by defeating Ed Meister, Warrensville, O., 3 and 2.

Schumacher, who entered the tournament as an alternate, was all-even with his opponent, who played for Yale last season, at the end of nine holes.

After a halve at the 10th Schumacher won the 11th with a birdie three on a 15-foot putt, picked up the next hole with a par when

BULLETIN

GLENVIEW, Ill., Sept. 14—Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Ct., who won the French amateur championship last spring, was eliminated in the third round of the United States amateur golf championship today by Ross Somerville, Canadian, who won the United States title in 1932.

Meister three putted, and won the 13th with another par when Meister was trapped.

They halved the next three holes in par figures.

Harry L. Givan, Seattle, eliminated Harry Todd, Dallas, with a two up victory. Givan held a one-hole margin through the first nine but Todd rallied, and the match was all even at the 17th.

On that hole Givan's second was within five feet of the pin. He got a birdie three to Todd's four.

At the 18th Todd put his second to the right of the carpet as Givan reached the edge in two.

Givan chipped to within 16 inches of the cup as Todd flubbed his third and sent his fourth about 18 inches past the pin. Both picked up, giving Givan a two up margin.

VICTOR'S REWARD—Mrs. Dick Chapman congratulates smiling hubby on reaching third round of national amateur golf championship. Dick won French amateur championship last spring. He lost to Ross Somerville, 1932 U. S. king, in third round of U. S. tourney

In Title Joust

The Class of 1920 softball team of the Boston College Alumni Association swings back into action next Sunday afternoon at Alumni Field, meeting the B team of the R. C. Club of Cambridge in a game to decide the Gold Division championship.

Cambridge B qualified to meet 1920 by defeating the B. C. Club of Waltham last Monday night.

The Class of 1920, better known as the "Ten Old Men" expect to be at full strength for the Sunday clash and will start Leo Aicardi, winner of his last five games in the box, with Bill Lyons catching. Included in the "old" lineup, are Bill Dempsey, 180-lb. physical director and Joseph C. White, member of the Boston School Committee.

Merchants Nine
In Final Clash

The Park Square Building "Merchants" will play their last game this season at the Boston Common Playground tomorrow afternoon at 2:30, against the Hotel Sheraton "Stargazers."

Pets Play Two Games
With Bridgeport Girls

The Bridgeport girls move into the Garden tomorrow and Saturday evenings for "a two-game series with the Boston Olympets, boasting the services of Marge Johnson, rated the tops in Connecticut softball circles.

To date the Johnson lass has accounted for 20 of the visitors' 21 victories checked up this year. Marge has held six of her opponents to an average of 4 runs per game. Her major triumph came last week when she defeated the Stamford Nutmegs, champions of Connecticut, 7-3, in an exhibition tilt.

The Nutmegs forced the Pets overtime before bowing to them at the Garden last Saturday night. The Bridgeport team has been playing independent ball this summer and could not compete for the state title.

In the past six games with Connecticut clubs, the Pets have emerged victorious on five occasions. The local girls have victories checked up: Yankee Girls, 6-5, the New Haven Starlets, 7-6, the New London Whalerettes, 10-1, the Burnham Brady Girls of Hartford, 4-1, and the state champion Stamford Nutmegs, 6-5. The Burnham Brady girls hold the only win over the Pets, and that was a 12-inning, 4-3, game.

Van Horn Next Great Net Champ

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—Welby Van Horn, a tall, grinning boy from the California tennis incubator, has everybody at Forest Hills saying he will be the next great champion of the courts—perhaps no later than next year.

By a great champion, they mean one like Tilden, Vines and Budge, not just good enough to win the championship, but up there all alone.

Welby, who turned 19 only six days ago, looks like the makings of that kind of champion.

At least he did in swatting Elwood Cooke out of the big tournament in four sets.

His service and his flat forehand drive, reminiscent of the Vines of 1931, practically blew Cooke off the stadium court.

CONFIDENT KID

Cooke was a Wimbledon finalist this year, good enough to carry Bobby Riggs to five sets, and he wasn't off his game yesterday.

Van Horn has made tremendous improvement since last year's championships, when Budge squelched him with the loss of only one game. He's about full grown now, and confident.

"After all, it took Vines only two years to reach the top," he said. "One year he was ranked only eighth, and the next year he won the title. They say my style is something like his."

Though totally unranked nationally and unseeded in the championships, the Los Angeles kid has a good chance of reaching Saturday's semi-finals at least.

His quarter-final opponent tomorrow will be Wayne Sabin of Portland, who scored a surprising victory over Adrian Panatier of Australia.

SETUP FOR RIGGS

There were eight men and eight women survivors to battle it out in the quarter-finals starting today.

The general opinion was that yesterday's series of upsets, eliminating Quist, Cooke and Frankie Parker, the three top-seeded men in the lower bracket, had gone a long way toward giving the title to Bobby Riggs.

Bobby figured to win fairly easily today over Harry Hopman, 33-year-old Australian, and his semi-final opponent will be either Don McNeill of Oklahoma City or Joe Hunt of Annapolis, who were to meet today.

In today's two women's quarter-finals, Champion Alice Marble faced Ruth Mary Hardwick of England, and Dorothy Bundy of Santa Monica, Cal., played Virginia Wolfenden of San Francisco.

Ken Harding Dons Huskies' Livery

Ken Harding, veteran from Wollaston, reported for practice to Coach Jimmy Dunn today.

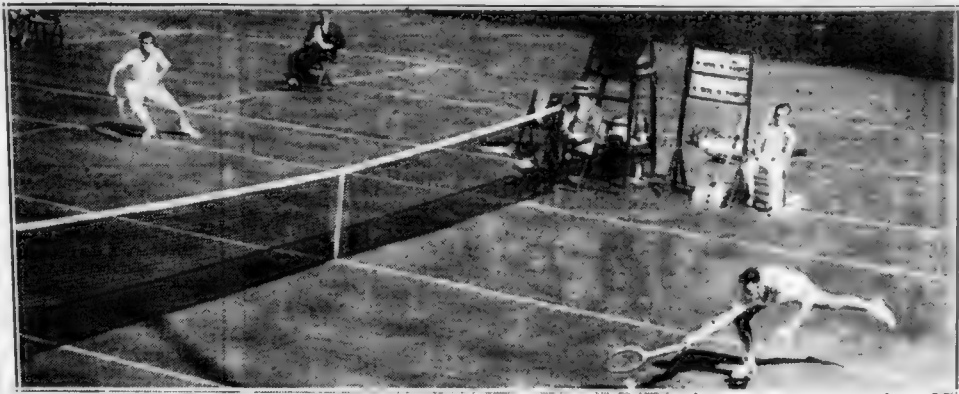

Harding last year was a starter in the blocking back position, but he threw passes and kicked from punt formation. This year, he will be the passer from regulation single wing back offense.

Cards Keep Glued to Reds

By The Associated Press

Unable to shake off the tenacious St. Louis Cardinals, the Cincinnati Reds nevertheless protected their 3½ game lead in the National League today with a 3 to 0 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Red Birds matched it with a 10-9 triumph over Philadelphia.

In the American League the New York Yankees lost another game from their apparently ample margin. The champions were trounced 3-4 by Cleveland while

Frank Parker misses as he bows to Gil Hunt in U. S. title play, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1

Bryan Steward At Rockingham

SALEM, N. H., Sept. 14 (AP)—Judge Frank Bryan, veteran racing official who represented the State of Massachusetts during the Suffolk Downs' meeting, will serve as steward at Rockingham Park for the first 12 days of the fall meeting that opens next Monday. Executive Manager Lou Smith announced today.

Bryan will fill in for Herman P. Conking, another veteran of the turf's pagodas, until he fulfills his engagement at Havre de Grace.

The other members of Rockingham's official family are Charles B. Suckney, the State of New Hampshire's representative; Tom Thorp and William D. Almy.

Blaik Shifts Green Line

The others involved in Blaik's first important change of the season were wingman Bob Nissen and Chuck Camp, a sophomore tackle. Blaik also tried to strengthen his soft left guard spot with the conversion of Bob Hickes, who played tackle on last year's freshman team.

Defensive and offensive aerial drills were stressed during the twin workouts.

Tigers Buy A's Pippen

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14 (AP)—A sale by the Athletics sent Pitcher Henry (Cotton) Pippen to the Detroit Tigers today.

The right-hander won four games and lost eleven with the A's this season. Drafted from the Sacramento Club last October, he was sold yesterday for the waiver price. Pippen was expected to join the Tigers in New York today.

The Boston Red Sox defeated the Detroit Tigers today.

This development left the clubs 15 games apart with the Yanks needing four victories to clinch their fourth consecutive flag.

This was the situation.

CASCADE

Mellow as Moonlight

"Mellow" is the word for Cascade.

It's made of gifted straight whiskies carefully blended by a secret formula that has been the fortune of the Dickel distilleries for generations. Cascade quality is distilled from the very life and vigor of the grain.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

"SWEDE" NELSON, who coached the All-Stars for their recent sensational stand against the Redskins, was receiving congratulations from his friends in the lobby of the Lenox Hotel.

I asked "Swede" how he explained the fine showing of the All-Stars against the superior might of the professionals.

"I believe when you have good players that spirit is the deciding factor in a game," replied Nelson. "College players possess spirit. Many coaches make the mistake of bearing down too much on youngsters and not permitting them to relax properly."

"When I took over the coaching of the All-Stars, one of the boys asked me what I had for a defense play in the event we were backed against our own goal line."

"We won't need such a play as we shall be in the other fellow's territory," I replied.

"Of course I knew that at some time in the game the Redskins would be around our goal line, but I was anxious to place the thought of victory in the minds of my players. I think I succeeded because they certainly made a good showing."

"I used Bob McLeod for 57 minutes, and after the game told him I was a little harsh with him on the matter of time."

"I would have liked to have been in there for the entire game," was McLeod's reply.

"I find that if one is able to get college players enthusiastic that they relax and play better."

"Football is a grand game, but one should not take it so seriously that he tightens up and fails to deliver his best efforts."

"Swede" is already looking forward to next year when his All-Stars will meet the Redskins again.

"We'll win next time," said Nelson. "We would have done so the other night with a little more time."

"The Pittsburgh players in our lineup were great. Every lineman is as efficient at calling signals as the backs. The Pittsburgh players have been taught their football from the ground up."

Harvard Football Practice Tomorrow

THERE WILL be real hope for a successful season as the Harvard football practice opens tomorrow. The Crimson has suffered losses from graduation, but will start the fall campaign with its share of experienced players.

Since Dick Harlow came to Harvard, football has been going forward. Harlow possessed very little material when he took over the destinies of football at Cambridge, but by expert coaching and patience he has succeeded in building strong elevens.

Harvard graduates and students like the new order of things. They enjoy seeing an eleven in the field that has an even chance of winning the Yale game, and which can make a bid for victory in the other clashes on the Crimson's schedule.

Boston Baseball Interest Fades

BOSTON BASEBALL interest has faded rapidly since the Red Sox dropped out of the fight for first place. Jimmy Fox's operation and the injury to Joe Cronin destroyed what was left in baseball enthusiasm.

There will be a slight flare-up among the fans when the Yankees return to town, but it will be only a whisper compared to what it would have been if the Sox could have kept close to the Yanks.

Baseball fans are already looking ahead to the World's Series when it is expected the Yanks will be defending their title against the Cincinnati Reds. Ordinarily one would go right out on a limb and declare the Yanks would win, but with the canny Bill McKeechie managing Cincinnati, almost anything can happen. McKeechie is a master in the handling of pitchers, and it has been proved in the past that flingers are the most important cogs to a baseball machine in the winning of a World's Series.

BOBBY AT TOURNEY

CHICAGO, Sept. 14 (AP)—One of the most interested spectators at the National Amateur Golf Tournament was Bobby Jones of Atlanta, Ga., winner of the amateur championship five times, between 1924 and 1930 and national open king four times between 1925 and 1936.

MIRACLE MAN. Bob "Lefty" Grove was supposed to be all washed up a year ago but today he was receiving congratulations on his 14th victory of the season. He limited the Tigers to four hits.

SULLIVAN TACKLES CARDINALS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 14—Manager Casey Stengel gave Lefty Joe Sullivan a tough assignment today when he named his port-sider to pitch against the St. Louis Cardinals. Joe, who has won six and lost the same number is down to oppose Curt Davis or Lon Warneke in the first of a three game series.

The St. Louis gang are but three and one-half games back of the pace setting Reds and are certain to pull up their heavy guns for the bombardment on the invading Bostonians.

The Gas House gang are picking this opportunity to jump the Reds at the expense of Casey Stengel's troupe. It can safely be said, however, that the Hub delegation will be in there giving their best for Old Boston during this hectic series.

The Boston Tribe was gald to shake off the dust of Chicago after the 15 to 4 defeat and the third at the hands of the Cubs. In yesterday's weird fray, Hank Leiber led the Cubs attack with two home runs. The Cubs center fielder knocked in six tallies, which was more than enough. This contest was the final between the two clubs, the Cubs winning 16 while the Bees scored with six victories.

W. E. Softball Title At Stake Sunday

The West End Softball League under the direction of Jimmy Casdow and his four assistants, Dave Altman, Tom Killeen, George Brenner and George Heath, will bring the season to a climax Sunday afternoon, when they play the Ellis Club of the West End House, at Charlebank Playground.

Each club has won their division and are now playing for the championship of the West End. Congressman Flaherty will present gold baseballs to the players, while the champions will be presented a trophy by Rep. George Leary.

Grove Only 15 Shy Of 300-Win Goal

By JOE CASHMAN

If there is big league baseball in 1940, the season will open with Charles Dillon Stengel piloting the Bees and Robert Moses Grove pitching for the Red Sox.

And that's not a Madame Astra prediction.

Bob Quinn has spoken for Mr. Stengel. Much to nobody's surprise and everybody's delight, the Swarm "prexy" is on record today to the effect that Of Case has been signed to take a third crack at leading the Allston athletes.

Joe Cronin would like to but, as yet, can't speak for Mr. Grove. Joseph, you see, is still waiting to get it in writing that he, himself, will be back on the job at the Fens next year. He has, to date, only a verbal promise.

So Mr. Grove has spoken for himself.

GREAT PERFORMANCE

His talking he did at the Fens yesterday with a 39-year-old left hand which rendered the Detroit Tigers speechless with amazement.

Using fire balls for nouns, curves for verbs and control for emphasis, Of Moose left the adjectives to the scribes.

And the latter were forced to exhaust their supply to paint an adequate word picture of "Lefty's" performance as he gained a 1 to 6 decision for his second shutout and 14th win of his 15th big league season and 285th triumph of the most brilliant pitching career on record. It was more than Grove's greatest game of the year; more, too, than his most impressive since his arm went "dead" facing these same Tigers at Fenway Park in July of last year.

It was the all-time southpaw ace's most sensational performance since he became a Sox six years ago.

We were talking to Grove on the bench before the game.

"You've never felt any stiffness, numbness or soreness in your arm at any time this season?" we queried.

"Not the slightest," he replied. "The trouble disappeared as suddenly as it hit me. My arm has felt stronger as the season has progressed. I had more stuff than in years when I lost 2 to 1, to the Yanks last week."

He had even more against the Tigers, according to Joe Cronin.

"I wasn't coming on a single victory from those when training started last spring," Joe continued, "and here he is now with more wins than anybody else on the staff."

"You can have any other mound great, I'll take Grove at 40. No other pitcher I've ever seen could be compared to Moose."

INDIANS NEXT ON LIST

"Lefty's" ambition is to win 300 major league games. He appears a cinch to do that next season, in his 41st year.

It was not only a thrilling but a timely victory, as well, that Grove turned in over the Tigers. For the third-place White Sox slapped down the Senators twice to climb to within 3½ games of our local runners-up.

The Hose must keep bearing down. Now they face a three-legged series with the Cleveland Indians, who come here direct from taking two in a row from the Yanks in New York.

The Forest City crew thinks it has a chance to wipe out the 3½ games which separate it from third place and if it doesn't succeed, it won't be for want of hustling.

Kaplan Training For Notch Bout

Mike Kaplan, Dorchester's welterweight, who made such a big hit at the recent Armstrong-Ambers show in New York, started training today at Kelly-Hayes gym for his eight-round bout with the hard punching Pittsburgher, Carmen Notch.

They will box the semi-final to the world's light heavyweight championship bout between Billy Conn of Pittsburgh and Melio Belina.

Rindge Tech Mentor Fears For Support of Grid Subs

By MICHAEL GILLOOLY

Time was when eleven men constituted a football team, but in these modern days of speed, a club is only as strong as its reserves and there is nobody who'll agree more heartily with you on this point than Wilfred "Mitch" Metivier, leader of the Rindge Technical grid destinies.

As far as a first team goes, the Cambridge mentor could ask for no more. His substitutes, however, are greener than a newly minted dollar bill.

His starting group shapes up as a winner from wire to wire but injuries and bruises are bound to pop up to force replacements into the battle. In spite of this handicap, there is little mourning heard from the Rindge side of Russell field as the giant squad of 81 candidates works out.

"If our second stringers move along with enough speed to rival the first club, we could predict a lot more for the future of the team," declared Metivier.

"We have a fine group in action but neither my assistant, Tom Smith, nor myself is satisfied with our first call reserves. As a matter of fact, we're concentrating more on the subs than ever before.

"Of course the boys will develop but in our schedule of 10 games we have no warm-up opener to offer the opportunity of testing them. Our first game is with Waltham followed by Haverhill, always among the leaders in the state championship battle.

2 LETTERMEN IN LINE

"There will be two lettermen in the line—which is going to be especially strong—and the same number in the backfield. We're not worrying. We'll let our opponents take care of that angle of the game."

The four veterans referred to by Metivier are the two tackles, Harry Robert; the coach's nephew, Evariste Metivier; and backs Henry Baniewicz and Bob Poirier.

Robert, as impressive as Steve Levantis when the current Boston College glider captained the Technicians, appears to be one of the best linemen in the state. A massive colored boy stretching over the six-foot mark and tipping a naked 210 pounds, Robert heads the forward wall that shows promise of living up to the coach's prediction.

Tackle Metivier, 190 pounds, has a brother, Bill, only a sophomore, who has clinched the first string center berth. Bill, a mere 180, is another reason for his uncle's jubilation over the powerful frontier.

In the guard slots, John Roden, 170, and Jim Killackey, 180, have the edge over Leo Horgan, whose comparatively slight 150 pounds holds him out of the first listing. Horgan has shown adeptness for breaking out of the line to run interference and this may yet bring about his promotion.

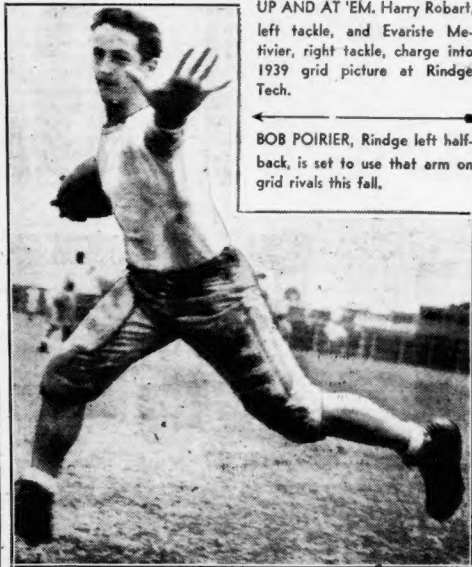

ENDS SLOTS ALL SET

George Kesselhuth and Jim Bond, 170 and 185 pounds, respectively, have garnered the ends and will be at starting posts at the Watch City a week from tomorrow.

Charlie Rozzio, tackle, and Jim Rounds, guard, are prospects who have been most impressive. These boys will see a lot of service on both sides of the line, as Coach Metivier tries to keep his regulars going at full speed while they are on the field.

Baniewicz, brother of Al of Cambridge fame a few seasons ago, will take care of the passing for the club and will share the kicking assignment with Fran Johnson, a new comer, who has shown well in practice.

Baniewicz, Poirier and Johnson will have Frank Balga or Paul Dotten as the fourth member. Dotten was injured recently in a scrimmage, so until his knee rounds to form, Balga will hold down the position.

(Cambridge Latin prospects will be reviewed in tomorrow's Daily Record.)
